

Ruby To Get Jury Trial

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby, described by his lawyers as a man whose "mind is falling apart," will get a jury trial to determine if he is now insane and should be committed to a mental hospital.

In response to a request for a sanity trial filed by Eva Grant, Ruby's sister, Judge Joe B. Brown said he would begin empaneling a jury at the first suitable date.

Texas law requires that a judge hold such a trial if the defense asks for it.

Bishop Backs Tough Policy

IONIA, Mich. (AP) — An Episcopal Church rector was upheld by his bishop Monday in the excommunication of a couple who found fault with the school play dance by Kristi Honson, 16.

Bishop Charles Bennison of the Western Michigan Episcopal Diocese came out solidly in support of the action of the Rev. Raymond Bierlein.

"There are too many clergymen today who pussyfoot," Bishop Bennison said. "We need more clergymen like him so that he would not seem so unusual."

The Rev. Mr. Bierlein, rector of the Ionia Episcopal Church, excommunicated Robert Clore and his wife, Jean, after the Clores charged in a letter to a newspaper that he held "archaic beliefs and moral knowledge."

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Greek Cypriot fighters drove ahead Monday night in a piners assault on the medieval castle of St. Hilarion, a major Turkish bastion in the Cyprus civil war.

Black Market Curb Impossible?

NEW YORK (AP) — The Catholic Relief Services said Monday that surplus U.S. government foods they deliver to South Viet Nam never are deliberately placed on the black market there.

But a spokesman for the organization, the Rev. Fabian Flynn, added: "It's almost impossible to control 100 per cent the end result."

Dressler Urges Tocks Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank W. Dressler, executive director of the Water Resources Association of the Delaware River Basin, called Tocks Island the key project in the management of water resources in the basin.

He urged approval of the $450,000 requested.

Dressler said the Tocks Island project is scheduled to begin operation no later than 1975. Until other projects in the basin are completed, he added, Tocks Island will be the only one large enough to regulate water flow on the river to meet the expanding needs of the Philadelphia and Trenton areas.

Explosives Set To Form Canal

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet engineers prepared Monday a massive explosion to release a dammed-up mountain river as a first step toward saving the flood-threatened, timeless city of Samarkand.

They planned to set off 110,000 pounds of explosives Tuesday in their effort to cut a canal outlet through a landslide that has blocked the Zeravshan River 1,700 miles southeast of Moscow.

BAC LIEU, South Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese soldiers inched forward under Communist mortar fire on the Ca Mau peninsula Monday night in what was shaping up as a major test of strength.

Market Suffers Second Decline

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market underwent another sharp decline Monday. A late rally fizzled.

Volume fell off to 5.09 million shares from Friday's 5.64 million.

The Dow Jones Industrial average declined 3.02 to 811.87.

Scranton Primary 'Draft' Test Today

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton's stature as a potential Republican presidential candidate may be rated by his home state voters Tuesday.

It will be by a write-in vote on a primary ballot that lists no presidential possibilities, either Republican or Democratic. The main contest is for the Democratic nomination as U.S. senator.

A "Pure Draft" Scranton backers, apparently acting on their own, are behind a drive to get so many write-ins that it will cause the 46-year-old, first-term governor to

Daily Record To Post Election Returns After 9

STROUDSBURG—The Monroe County primary campaign ended quietly yesterday and a light turnout by 18,649 eligible voters for today's election was expected.

Showers were predicted. Polls open at 8 a. m. and close at 9 p. m. (EDST). Bars open at 10 p. m.

Voters perplexed by the problem of writing-in presidential candidates' names should see an explanatory story on Page 3. Major local contests are outlined on Page 3, state primary battles on this page.

The Daily Record will report election returns, district by district, on a tally-board in front of the Record office after 9 p. m. County totals are not expected before 11 p. m.

Scranton Asks More Aid For Coal Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania urged President Johnson Monday to add $10 million to his Appalachian program for use in coal mining areas.

Johnson told Scranton he had presented "a very persuasive and meritorious case," and that his proposal would be submitted at once to the other eight Appalachian state governors for their consideration.

Press secretary George Reedy said later that the President's Appalachian message to Congress calling for aid for the distressed area might be held up until the other Appalachian governors have had a chance to present their views.

Scranton wants the $10 million added for what he described as

Science Gives Odds For Safer Smoking

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department's top researcher says there is a good chance that science can decrease the health hazards of smoking.

"It is going to take intensive work," Dr. B. T. Shaw says, "and I couldn't predict how soon the answer would come."

Shaw, administrator of the department's agricultural research service, made his assessment in testimony before a House appropriations subcommittee on agriculture last Feb. 25. A transcript of the hearing was released Monday.

Shaw testified that although the Public Health Service has issued a report that smoking

Advertising Code For Cigarette Firms

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's cigarette makers said Monday they have agreed on an advertising code stating that ads will "not represent that cigarette smoking is essential to social prominence, distinction, success or sexual attraction."

Banned by the code are testimonials from athletes, celebrities or anyone "who might have special appeal to persons under 21."

The code also ends the distribution of free sample cigarettes to anyone under 21 and promotion of cigarette smoking on school or college campuses, including advertising.

The companies represented by the Tobacco Institute, said an administrator to enforce the code will be named soon. All advertising must be first submitted to him for approval.

The code, which must be cleared by the Department of Justice for compliance with anti-trust laws, will apply to all change his stand that he does not want the nomination.

None of the Republican presidential hopefuls campaigned in the state but backers of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona say they expect to pick up six to eight of the 54 convention delegates to be chosen.

Scranton has asked for an unpledged delegation, with himself as chairman in a "favorite son" role. The 10 at-large delegates already picked have agreed to this.

Goldwater forces say anything less than 800,000 write-ins for Scranton should be regarded as repudiation of him as presidential timber. Craig Truax, state GOP chairman, calls the Goldwater claim ridiculous.

100,000 Aim

Truax says he is hopeful of 100,000 votes for Scranton. He points to the difficulty of writing-in names on automatic voting machines—used in much of the state—and says he doubts one voter in five will take the time.

The contest drawing the most state attention is for the Democratic nomination as U.S. senator.

The party organization is backing Justice Michael A. Musmanno of the State Supreme Court. U.S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark is backing Miss Genevieve Blatt, 56, the first woman elected to statewide office as state secretary of internal affairs.

The third in the race is David B. Roberts.

The incumbent senator, Hugh Scott, a Republican, has only token opposition in W. Henry MacFarland.

No Cross-Party Vote

There are 5,365,474 voters registered, with the Democrats having an edge of a little more than 11,000. Cross-party voting is not permitted in the primary, except in judicial contests.

There also is a special election for Congress in Philadelphia. William Green III, 25, son of the late, long-time boss of Philadelphia Democrats, is opposing Republican Edward H. Rovner. Green senior, who died last December, represented the district for 15 years and the son is regarded as the likely winner.

Green and Rovner also seek party nomination for the full term.

Truax Urges Scranton Write-In

HARRISBURG (AP) — Republican State Chairman Craig Truax urged his party's voters to write-in Gov. Scranton's name for the GOP presidential nomination when they vote in Tuesday's primary election.

Truax, in a statement, acknowledged that Scranton has persistently denied any personal designs on the office, but added: "Regardless . . . of how the governor felt . . . it is apparent that a complimentary vote for him will increase his effectiveness as chairman of the Pennsylvania delegation (at the GOP national convention)."

Morse Attacks Scranton Bid

HARRISBURG (AP) — Democratic State Chairman Oris B. Morse accused Gov. Scranton Monday of campaigning for the Republican presidential nomination with two resources of state government—money and men.

Despite Scranton's repeated disclaimers of interest in the nomination, Morse said in a statement, the governor is campaigning for the office "just as hard and intensively as any of the announced Republican candidates."

Morse said: "A well-planned drive for Scranton write-in votes at tomorrow's primary election has seen the entire state government payroll — about 80,000 workers—pushed into the campaign with orders to get out at a Scranton write-in vote."

Scranton Sees Pres. Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President of the United States and the governor of Pennsylvania got together Monday — but not on politics.

Gov. William W. Scranton said, in fact, politics wasn't even mentioned, and that, "No," President Johnson didn't let him try the presidential chair for size. But he volunteered "I think his telephone system is superb . . . a lot better than mine."

Scranton is mentioned widely as a possible Republican candidate for the White House against Johnson. But, at the White House Monday, as elsewhere, he said he is not a candidate for anything, although he would not refuse a legitimate draft.

Asked whether he has a favorite for the Republican nomination, the governor had a stock reply: "Anybody but me."

Hoffa Orders Union To Halt Paying Fees

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Teamster Vice President Harold J. Gibbons said Monday that Teamster President James R. Hoffa had ordered the union to stop paying his legal fees.

"Mr. Hoffa," Gibbons said, "wants to find out if such payments are legal. The decision will not be reversed until their legality is upheld by a nationally outstanding authority."

Gibbons said Hoffa's decision came at Chicago where Hoffa is being tried on federal charges of mis-using $20,000,000 in union pension reserves.

"Mr. Hoffa made the decision in view of a request by Teamster Vice President John J. O'Rourke of New York," Gibbons said.

O'Rourke said he received a legal opinion that paying Hoffa's legal fees with union funds is illegal. Gibbons denied reports that the Teamster secretary-treasurer had ordered the payments stopped.

An attorney representing 12 members of Teamsters Local 107 in Philadelphia, Gibbons said, sent a letter which said that union payment of Hoffa's legal fees is illegal. Gibbons said that a copy of the letter went to all union vice presidents.

Teamster vice presidents agreed Friday to hire an outside legal authority from outside the union to study the problem," he said. "Hoffa made his decision in a phone call to the vice presidents today."

Gibbons is in St. Louis campaigning for the Teamsters in a National Labor Relations Board election at Century Electric Co. About 900 employees of Century will vote on whether to become members of the Teamsters or the International Union of Electrical Workers.

The controversy over the union paying Hoffa's legal fees had caused a wrangle among the Teamster vice presidents.

The development threatened another heavy blow for Hoffa, who was rocked by a federal jury-tampering conviction in Chattanooga, Tenn., last month and faces high legal expenses for appeals and for his Chicago trial. Hoffa was sentenced to eight years in prison in the Chattanooga case.

His legal expenses reportedly involve several hundred thousand dollars.

Gibbons, a Teamsters vice president and executive board member, said in a telephone interview from his St. Louis, Mo., headquarters, that he knows of no move within the executive board to ask Hoffa to step aside as president until his legal problems are cleared up.

Hoffa Trial Jury To Be Locked Up

CHICAGO (AP) — A jury being chosen to try James R. Hoffa on a $20 million fraud conspiracy charge will be locked up between court sessions, the presiding judge said Monday.

Hoffa went on trial for the third time since he took over the presidency of the Teamsters Union. The trial, Hoffa's second this year, may last three or four months.

Judge Richard B. Austin of U.S. District Court said during questioning of prospective jurors that he intends to lock up the jury when it is selected.

Can Call Home Jurors, he said, will be permitted to call their homes once a day and will be permitted to receive visits from their families once a week in the presence of U.S. deputy marshals.

Hoffa at present is under conviction of attempting to fix a jury in another trial.

Twelve of the first 26 prospective jurors were dismissed for various reasons.

Among them was Robert Voelker, who told Abraham Forester, U.S. attorney heading the prosecution staff, that he was irritated when the Internal Revenue Service told him it would audit his income tax return. He said his attitude toward the government might change if the audit showed he owed the government money.

Hoffa already is under conviction for attempting to fix a jury in a trial at Nashville, Tenn.

He declined to discuss the current trial with newsmen.

$1 Million Diversion The eight men are accused of diverting more than a million dollars for their personal benefit while fraudulently arranging loans totaling $20 million from funds of the Central States, Southeast and Southwest Areas Pension Fund, of which Hoffa is a trustee. The fund has its headquarters in Chicago.

The fund was set up in 1955 and collects payments from employers for the benefit of more than 177,000 Teamsters union members in some 20 states. Administered by eight trustees representing employers and eight representing the union, the fund has assets totaling about $200 million.

Hoffa was the only trustee indicted.

Those on trial with Hoffa: Benjamin Dranow, former Minneapolis businessman now serving a sentence in federal prison for mail, wire and bankruptcy fraud; Abe I. Weinblatt, Miami Beach, Fla., a retired New York furrier and associate of Dranow; S. George Burris, New York City, an accountant; Herbert R. Burris, New York City attorney and son of George Burris; Samuel Hyman, Miami Beach, a real estate operator; Calvin Kovens, Miami Beach, president of two construction firms; Zachary "Strate Jr., New Orleans, a builder.

The trial revolves around a 28-count indictment returned last year. Conviction on all counts could result in penalties totaling 140 years imprisonment and $37,000 in fines for each.

Johnson Scores Hit With U.S. Chamber

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wave after wave of applause from a predominantly Republican audience greeted President Johnson Monday. Some came on his prediction of a $30-billion profit year and his promise of "restraint and responsibility" in government but he drew noisy endorsements at dozens of other points.

Some 5,000 delegates of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and their wives interrupted with applause or laughter, or both, 60 times during Johnson's lively, hour-long speech.

Democratic Triumph It was a triumph for the Democratic president and, sensing it, Johnson strayed far from his prepared text to regale the businessmen with Texas-style quips and anecdotes.

His forecast that 1964 would bring industry $30 billion in profits, after taxes, was given in a long extemporaneous passage, in which Johnson noted that profits were $17.2 billion in 1952, $24.6 billion in 1962 and $27.1 billion last year.

He seized the opportunity to press his attack on poverty, telling the businessmen they can help make "taxpayers out of tax-eaters."

Burden Of Poverty The President said that despite the rising level of profits and prosperity for millions, the poverty of many Americans is "a mounting burden" of relief, medical and police costs. He said that racial and religious discrimination is costing the nation $15 billion in output each year.

More costs are entailed in fighting the effects of poverty elsewhere in the world, he said, adding: "If you don't remember anything else that I tell you here today, I want you to remember this:

"If peaceful change is impossible, then a violent change is inevitable."

Federal Savings The President gave assurance that he means business about cutting government costs, closing unneeded military posts and "cavalry forts," eliminating excess federal workers.

"I do not accept the viewpoint on either side, that business and government are inherently hostile opponents," he said.

Constitution Hall was jammed for his appearance—an unusual circumstance for the opening session of the chamber's annual meeting—and if there was any less Johnson broke it quickly by his mid greeting: "I suppose it might not be entirely accurate to greet you as 'my fellow Democrats.'"

Earlier, in an atmosphere of outward calm, Chester High School and two vocational schools were reopened. They and the city's 15 junior high and grade schools were closed for two days last week because of civil rights demonstrations.

Still, on another front, Charles D. Long, Chester superintendent of public schools, testified in a court suit that he has received no "assurances" that civil rights demonstrations won't be resumed at the schools.

Long testified at a hearing in Delaware County Court on the school district's petition for an injunction to restrain the Committee For Freedom Now and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People from engaging in such demonstrations.

There are 18 schools, 11,250 pupils and 440 teachers in the system. There are 6,725 Negro and 4,525 white pupils.

As for the reopening of the schools Monday, school officials said there were 231 absentees, "slightly above normal." There were fewer pupils at Chester High School than normally because the 300-member senior class traveled to the World's Fair in New York on a class outing. The school has 1,961 pupils, 955 of whom are Negroes.

Johnson picked his two beagle pups up by the ears Monday and let them yowl.

"Why did you do that?" a woman reporter inquired.

Johnson had just dropped "him," and a few moments before had lifted "Her" by the ears and let her down.

"To make him bark," he said. "It's good for him. And, if you've ever followed dogs, you like to hear them yelp."

The pups were frisking on the White House lawn when Johnson went out to the rose garden to greet a task force on promoting increased foreign investment in securities of U.S. firms.

He called the dogs over, fed them some of their sugar-coated vitamin pills from a bottle, played with them a bit, rolled them over, then hoisted them by the ears.

"You see what a dog will do when he gets in a crowd of bankers?" the President remarked with a smile after the yips subsided.

Some authorities on dogs questioned the president's handling.

"I've never heard it said that this is good for beagles," said John Neff, executive vice president of the American Kennel Club.

"I never heard of such a method and I don't approve," said Carole A. White, who runs a beauty parlor for dogs in fashionable Georgetown.

Claude Williams, who runs a kennel in Ashton, Md., disagreed, too. But Williams—who has boarded the pets of four presidents — hastened to add: "I'm a good Democrat and would not want to criticize the President."

There are no provisions on the ballot for presidential candidates, but voters are permitted to express their choices by a write-in vote.

Also to be elected are delegates to the Democratic and Republican national conventions; and city, town and ward committees for both parties.

There have been no campaigns for votes and no more than 10 per cent of the 2½ million registered Massachusetts voters are expected to cast ballots.

Lodge, a resident of Beverly, Mass., currently is in South Viet Nam as ambassador. At no time has he indicated he is a candidate.

The number of votes given Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy will be appraised.

Public Hearings Set For Chester

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — The Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission, with the approval of Gov. William W. Scranton who intervened personally in demonstrations here, decided Monday to hold public hearings into alleged de facto segregation in the city's public schools.

Harry Boyer, chairman of the commission and also president of the state AFL-CIO, said in a prepared statement: "The Commission intends to settle the issues and to make appropriate orders to enforce its decision."

After a five and one half hour meeting in nearby Philadelphia, Boyer announced the hearings—three days of them—will begin at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Pennsylvania Military College here.

Earlier, in an atmosphere of outward calm, Chester High School and two vocational schools were reopened. They and the city's 15 junior high and grade schools were closed for two days last week because of civil rights demonstrations.

At tomorrow's meeting the joint board is expected to select nine directors who will operate as an interim committee until the first Monday in December 1965. At that time the elector will name new board members.

Bangor's meeting last night was called to view the new school set-up and an attempt to pick three from the seven member board for the interim committee.

When it became apparent no decision could be reached because all seven were nominated, and agreed to let the joint board make the selection.

Clair H. Peilly was the only Bangor director absent from the meeting. He is currently attending the National School Directors Convention being held in Dallas, Texas.

It was disclosed that each of the seven school boards in the jointure is meeting separately in an attempt to endorse interim board appointees.

State News Roundup

Musmanno Blasts Sen. Clark Lies

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sparks flew from both sides again Monday as the heated campaign for the Democratic senatorial nomination drew to a close.

Justice Michael Musmanno of the State Supreme Court, who has the backing of the party organization, said in a speech to the National Maritime Union Conference that his chief critic, Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., "in this primary business has absolutely gone berserk."

He asserted that Clark "grinds out lies like a sausage machine turns out sausage."

Clark, supports Miss Genevieve Blatt, secretary of internal affairs, for the nomination in Tuesday's primary election. In the race also is David Roberts, Allegheny County prothonotary.

"It is absolutely fantastic," said Musmanno, "with my honored service in the Pennsylvania legislature, my having presided at the Nuremberg war crimes trials, being a veteran of two world wars, and the recipient of honors from four presidents, that I should have to put up with this common scold, this political bushwacker, who has been stirring up the forces of intolerance and bigotry."

Husband Shot; Abductor Jailed

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—Police said that a 29-year-old man tried to abduct a Wilkes-Barre woman at gunpoint early Monday, then shot her husband when he came to her rescue.

Frank Martz of Plymouth Township, was placed on $6,000 bail on three charges in police court. He was jailed in default of the bail.

Martz, a truck driver, pleaded guilty to two charges of assault and battery with intent to kill and a charge of violation of the Uniform Firearms Act before Magistrate Andrew Michalow.

Police said Martz admitted trying to force Mrs. Marjorie Shannon to go for a ride with him in her own car and accidentally shooting her 32-year-old husband, William, in the ensuing scuffle. The husband was in the house and ran to his wife's aid.

UC Bill Means Lower Rate

HARRISBURG (AP)—About 45,000 Pennsylvania employees have qualified to pay a rate lower than the old 2 per cent minimum under the state's new unemployment compensation law, a state official estimated this week.

Jack B. Brown, director of the Bureau of Employment Security which administers the program, made the estimate on the basis of a survey being conducted by his office.

He said the survey, which covers about 63,200 of the state's 193,600 participating employees, was "still in pretty rough shape," but described the 45,000 figure as a "pretty good estimate."

Tocks Plan Opposed At Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate Appropriations subcommittee heard opposition Monday to planning funds for the Tocks Island project on the Delaware River.

Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis of East Stroudsburg, Pa., suggested that "before building a dam for the future based on past water availability, why not re-examine the whole of the factors and give first priority to common sense dams placed where they will serve maximum purpose?"

The President's budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 contains $450,000 to continue planning the proposed dam in Pennsylvania and New Jersey which would form a reservoir backing up almost to the New York State line.

Henry R. Schnitzer of Bayonne, N.J., and Bushkill, Pa., told the subcommittee that proponents point to flood control, water supply, power generation and recreation arguments in supporting the project.

However, he said, "none of the excuses is valid."

Mrs. Shukaitis, who said she owns property in the area which would be increased in value by the project, contended the huge dam could not have prevented the 1955 Delaware Valley floods. Anticipated national requirements, she said, don't warrant spending $1,000 per acre to irrigate farmland in one valley, while inundating another fertile valley containing thousands of acres suitable for various human needs.

Hectic World In Short

By Frank Perrella

Colleagues have energy. You remember how they scaled the gale's downs during the widely publicized party raids. And how they stuffed themselves into phone booths. And how they saw how long they could stay in a laundromat dryer.

Well, the latest fad is rolling a beer keg.

This week, five coeds from Portland State College chipped 45 minutes off a men's record when they rolled an empty beer keg from Portland to the Pacific Ocean in 19 hours.

Two weeks ago, six Portland State men rolled a keg over the 75 mile distance in 19 hours and 45 minutes. They claimed it was a collegiate first.

The Catholic priest made a hobby of collecting guns and working with precious stones.

This weekend, the pastor and his housekeeper were handcuffed, while thieves spent 1 1/2 hours looting the rectory of guns and precious stones.

Then they got away. The crime took place in Sunnyside, Wisconsin.

The London Sunday Mirror—circulation five million—published a four paragraph obituary of a mouse in this week's edition.

The mouse in question was the one dubbed "Sir Michael" who has been cavorting in the pinnacles of window of Queen Elizabeth's grocers', Fortnum and Mason.

Fortnum's is so fancy there are crystal chandeliers, ankle-deep carpets throughout, all salesclerks in swallow tail coats and a section where madame can buy Dior gowns while waiting for the groceries to be wrapped.

The store was horrified by the mouse and took drastic steps to get rid of it.

"PISON," said the Mirror, "ended his brief run of nightly frolics."

as far as Bontoe is concerned?

Not so, say the veteran rain callers. It's just that the present generation is dominated by men of little faith.

Scott More Conservative Than Clark

WASHINGTON — Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D) voted with the conservative coalition two per cent of the time and against the coalition 93 per cent of the time in 1963.

Sen. Hugh Scott (R) had a coalition support score of 32 per cent and a coalition opposition score of 46.

Rep. Fred B. Rooney (D) voted with the conservative coalition 0 per cent of the time and against the coalition 67 per cent of the time.

This is not a complete record because Rooney was elected in July, 1963, to fill a vacancy. All of these scores are based on the roll-call votes in 1963 on which the majority of voting Republicans and the majority of voting Southern Democrats, forming a conservative coalition, opposed the stand taken by the majority of voting Northern Democrats.

Support and opposition scores add to 100 percent only if the Member voted "yea" or "nay" on all of the test roll calls. Failure to vote, even if a stand is announced, lowers the score.

New Chemical Phenomenon Ends Floor Waxing Forever

From the Research Laboratories of a pioneer chemical formulator for the Polaris Nuclear Submarines, Missile and Space Industries comes a new discovery so unusual it's almost unbelievable.

Newark, N. J. (Special)—The most wasteful, time-consuming chore in every household, is the arduous, weekly task of a woman bending, over, scrubbing, waxing her floors. Homes with their large areas of asphalt, vinyl-asbestos, rubber, linoleum, vinyl and wood floors in kitchens, living and game rooms, virtually chain the housewife to her wax applicator and buffing machine, for hundreds of dreary hours of body-grinding drudgery.

Some years ago there was not much that could be done to eliminate this weekly drudgery of floor waxing and buffing. Things have changed however. There is now available in this area, a new chemical phenomenon, a clear, liquid plastic polyurethane coating, developed by PROTEX-A-COTE, INC., Newark 14, N. J., and the name of this back saver is PORSELOX PT-100 and is manufactured by no other company in the world.

PT-100, can be safely and easily applied by use of a lamb's wool applicator, brush or spray to all types of floors: Asphalt tiles, vinyl, vinyl-asbestos, rubber composition, linoleum, wood, terrazzo and concrete as well, and is manufactured by the makers of protective coatings for the Polaris Nuclear Submarines, Polaris, Talos and Minuteman missiles, highways, bridges, airports, missile bases, General Motors, Ford Motor Co., Du Pont, General Dynamic, General Electric, Westinghouse, Republic and Grumman Aviation, ITT Telephone, Union Carbide, Lehman Bros. Properties, Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, etc.

Now for the first time in history, you can take the drudgery out of floor waxing and polishing forever. PT-100 imparts a high-gloss mirrorlike, non-slip, long-lasting finish that never, never has to be waxed or polished. An occasional swish of a damp mop keeps your floors sparkling clean.

At first PT-100 was sold only to industrial and commercial users. In one test application, a clear polyurethane coating was applied to 30,000 square feet of wood flooring in a chemical plant. A year later, after having been continually subjected to steel-wheel, fork lift, trucks and daily wear by 10,000 cars, chemical spillage and heavy foot traffic, the clear polyurethane finish was still intact with its original high gloss unmarred by the exposure. By comparison, high priced, nationally known, clear floor coatings, exposed to the same conditions at the same time, disappeared almost entirely in the first four months.

Your floors will be waterproof, pet and baby-proof, extremely resistant to spilled juices, boiling water, acids, oils, greases, all types of soaps and detergents. Dries dustfree in less than 60 minutes. Will not chip, peel, crack or blister. It's a non-slip gloss in extremely high, without dulling or yellowing with age.

PT-100's famous secret formula many have tried to imitate but, of course, no one has been able to copy it exactly. PT-100 is fortified with ZALBA, wonder chemical from DuPont, provides film toughness, abrasion-resistance. Test in independent laboratories have proven an increase in film life of more than 20 times.

PT-100 is available in clear, white, black and 12 decorator colors with at least a 5 year life expectancy, and there is virtually no limit to what you can coat with PT-100, interior or exterior, on any of hundreds of other surfaces, siding, boats, tanks, farm machinery, trucks, station, metal railings, swimming pools, patios, damp basements, etc. and you'll have a hard-time wearing it out.

Want proof of PT-100 effectiveness? For a limited time only, you get $1.00 off on a quart, test kit on us for 30 days and judge for yourself its incredible performance. You must be 100% satisfied or our authorized dealer will refund your money in full on this money saving offer cheerfully and immediately.

Note: Limit only one quart per family with this ad. Clip this ad right now while it's still fresh in your mind and you'll never, never have to wax floors again.

Conservatives Win Half The Votes

By Congressional Quarterly
WASHINGTON — (CQ) — The "conservative coalition" of Republicans and Southern Democrats won exactly half of the votes on which it appeared in the 1963 session of Congress.

On all of the coalition votes on which President Kennedy stated his position, it was in opposition to the coalition. In these contests, Mr. Kennedy won 18 times, 15 in the Senate and 3 in the House. The coalition defeated the President 14 times, 7 in the Senate and 7 in the House.

Coalition Appearance
In a study of voting behavior in both chambers, Congressional Quarterly found that a majority of Republicans and Southern Democrats opposed a majority of the Northern Democrats on 58 (17 percent) of the session's 348 roll calls. The figure was slightly higher than in 1962, when the coalition appeared on 14 percent of the votes, but remained well below the 88 roll calls (28 percent) in 1961.

The lower number in the last two years was due in part to the President's success in winning Republicans or Southerners to his program. Mr. Kennedy was far more successful in stopping the coalition in his second and third years in office than in his first.

Votes on which the coalition might have been expected to appear, and did not, included: House action on a college construction aid bill, House and Senate action on a medical school and student aid bill, Senate action on Area Redevelopment Administration funds, and House action on the tax bill.

On all of these but college aid, Southern Democrats joined Republicans against Northern Democrats.

On the other hand, some measures on which the coalition might have formed were held up by the Administration to avoid embarrassing defeats.

For instance, urban mass transit and area redevelopment bills were stalled in the House Rules Committee because of the risk that they would be defeated on the floor by Republicans and Southern Democrats. A proposal to create an Urban Affairs Department, resoundingly defeated by the conservative coalition in 1962, was not even submitted by the Administration last year.

Coalition Victories
In the Senate in 1963 the coalition successfully opposed an amendment to broaden the dairy bill to include programs similar to those proposed by the President, curtailed the development loan program in the foreign aid authorization, trimmed funds for manpower training, added funds for the Mexican farm labor program, and limited the scope of the National Service Corps.

In the House, major coalition successes included rejection of additional spending authority for the Area Redevelopment Administration and recommitment of the foreign aid appropriation bill for the purpose of cutting funds.

The coalition in the House at first succeeded in amending the foreign aid appropriation bill to prohibit Export-Import Bank credits for sales to Communist countries, but the majority of Southern Democrats subsequently agreed with Northern Democrats to permit such credits if declared by the President to be in the national interest.

Average Scores
The 1963 study also showed that:

On the 1963 test votes, the average Southern Democratic Senator supported the coalition 61 percent of the time, the average Southern Democratic Representative 58 percent. By contrast, the average Northern Democratic Senator voted against the coalition 69 percent of the time, the average House Northern Democrat 73 percent.

The average Republican Senator supported the coalition 65 percent of the time, the average Republican Representative 67 percent.

High-Low Scorers
High scorers in support of the conservative coalition in the Senate were Sens. Herman Tamm (D Ga.), John L. McClellan (D Ark.), Len B. Jordan (R Idaho), Karl E. Mundt (R S.D.), Carl T. Curtis (R Neb.), and John J. Williams (R Del.), all of whom scored 90 percent or over.

The Southern Democratic Senator with the highest score in opposition to the coalition was Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney.

New cells develop to take the place of those which have worn out and died or have been destroyed by injury or disease.

(D Okla.). The Republican Senator with the highest opposition score was Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R N.Y.).

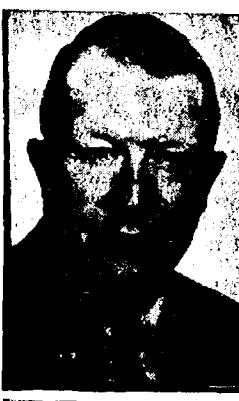

In the House, eight Members scored 100 percent coalition support — five Southern Democrats and three Republicans. Seven Northern Democrats and no Southern Democrats or Republicans scored 100 percent opposition.

Light Turnout Expected At Monroe's Polls Today

STROUDSBURG — Elections are exciting things, usually. By most standards — that is, big jobs up for grabs — today's primary battles may seem tame. Estimates have been heard that less than 50 per cent of Monroe County's 18,649 voters will take the trouble to cast their ballots.

But there may be more excitement in today's election than appears on the surface. Democrats have some fiery candidates in the race for U.S. Senate: controversial Michael Musmanno is opposing Genevieve Blatt, who is well-known in the state for her political doings. Also running is David B. Roberts.

GOP Choices

The GOP can choose between Hugh Scott and Henry MacFarland for the Senate nomination. The choices today will ultimately pit two people against each other in November for the very important job of Senator. Leo W. McCormick is unopposed on the GOP ticket for 15th district representative, but veteran campaigner Fred Rooney, the incumbent, has been tangling with George A. Creitz and John S. Stephens for the Democrat nod.

Again, this primary decides who will vie in November. For the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, the GOP has John Ferree vs. John H. Davis, while Van D. Yetter, incumbent, runs unopposed on the Democratic slate.

In this, as in other races, the best man can't win in November unless he's nominated in April. Parke E. Unangst is battling Mary E. Fontanella for the GOP state committeeman post, while Grace K. Palmer goes against J. Joseph McCluskey on the Democratic side.

4 Out Of 5
Another important battle this election year is the race for delegates to the Democratic National Convention. Harry Rider of Monroe County is up with Robert Ungerfelder, Daniel North, John Choma, Jr., and Simon A. Kelly. Voters will select four.

Dr. Charlotte Jordan is running unopposed for alternate to the convention.

Also unopposed is James Cadue for the Democratic county chairmanship.

Probably the most interesting result of this election will be the size of the write-in vote for Gov. William Scranton as presidential nominee on the GOP ticket.

He's expected — by his backers — to poll a large number of write-ins. In the past, however, it's been notoriously hard to get people to life that little metal slide and write in a name.

All in all, though the race may lack the glamor of some of the big ones, it doesn't lack any of the importance for the citizenry.

$24,250 Settlement In Suit

SCRANTON — A Long Island woman was given a settlement of $24,250 in Scranton District Court yesterday for injuries received in a fall in front of the American house in Stroudsburg on Feb. 3, 1961.

Russell Mervine and Samuel Newman of the Stroudsburg law firm of Mervine, Brown and Newman represented Rita E. Mitchell of Long Beach, L. I., N.Y., the injured woman.

The suit was filed against Boyd and Charlotte Weiss of the American House, the Frank Martz Bus Co., the Bell Telephone Co., and the borough of Stroudsburg.

Bus Passenger

According to the suit, the woman was a passenger on a Martz bus going to Pittston from New York when the bus pulled into the American House.

She stepped from the bus and used the telephone on Eighth St. outside the hotel. As she was walking to the side entrance to the hotel, she slipped on a patch of ice formed around a downspout which allowed water to run onto the sidewalk.

She fell, breaking her ankle in three places; she is a nurse in a Long Island hospital.

The case came up in U.S. District Court yesterday before Judge William J. Nealon. The jury was selected and negotiations were carried on. A settlement was then reached, giving $24,250 to the woman.

Appearing for the Weiss's was Atty. Carl M. O'Malley; for the borough, Atty. James Scanlon of Scranton; for Martz, Atty. Harry O'Neill, and for the Bell Co., Atty. Hugh McMenamin.

Write-In Voting Simple, Easy

STROUDSBURG — This is the year of the write-ins. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge swept the New Hampshire primary with write-in votes.

Elsewhere, politicians and pollsters are carefully watching the results of write-in campaigns for president in primaries across the nation.

Today it's Pennsylvania's turn.

The eyes of the nation are watching to see how many write-ins Gov. William W. Scranton will get in his own state. A lot of write-ins could mean further interest in the governor. Few write-ins by his own state voters could mean the end of the presidential hopes his backers have for him.

Writing in a vote is simple. Above each office is a metal slide. Above the presidential office is a large square slide. The voter simply lifts the slide and writes in the name of his presidential choice, or other office choice.

For those with stickers — Scranton backers have been distributing gummed stickers with the governor's name printed on them — you simply peel off the paper backing and firmly press the sticker over the exposed paper when you lift the slide.

A voter will lose his vote if he writes in anything but "William W. Scranton." Bill Scranton, Scranton, or any other such form of the name will not be counted.

For other names, the rule is the full first name, middle initial or full middle name, and last name.

For instance, you might write "Henry Cabot Lodge," "Sen. Barry Goldwater," or "Richard M. Nixon."

On the Democratic side, where the write-in interest is less fervid, the Democrats might write in "Robert F. Kennedy," "Lyndon B. Johnson," or other names.

Voting machines are supposed to be equipped with a writing implement, but it might be wise to bring your own.

One Hurt In Cherry Valley Crash

STROUDSBURG — State police from the Stroudsburg substation yesterday at 2:55 p. m. investigated a two-car accident in the intersection of Rt. 101 and Twp. Rt. 385, near Kitty's Tavern in Cherry Valley. One person was slightly injured.

Injured was Mrs. Amy Coffman, 58, of 84 N. Green St., East Stroudsburg. She was taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County where she was treated and released.

State Police identified the drivers as Fredia W. Lanterman, 61, of 87 N. Green St., East Stroudsburg, and Stephen P. Miller, 21, of Stroudsburg, RD 1. Mrs. Coffman was a passenger in the Lanterman car.

According to police the Lanterman car backed from a private driveway into the north bound lane of Rt. 101. She then attempted a left turn into Twp. Rt. 385.

Miller, who was traveling south on Rt. 101, swerved his car in an attempt to avoid the crash and the two cars collided in the intersection.

State police estimate damage to the Lanterman car at $400, and to the Miller vehicle at $400.

Slate Belt Police Probe Truck Theft

WIND GAP — Police Chiefs Leo Reinhardt of Wind Gap and Glenwood T. Lewis of Bangor are investigating a stolen truck found yesterday in St. John's Cemetery in Bangor.

The truck is owned by J. C. Welkie, a plumber in Wind Gap. It was discovered yesterday at 2:50 p. m. in the cemetery by Chief Lewis.

Leo Reinhardt said the truck was stolen from its parking place on Broadway in Wind Gap yesterday between the hours of 12:30 and 9 a. m.

Welkie told police that he last saw the truck parked near his home at 12:30 a. m. just before he retired for the night. When he went for the truck yesterday at 9 a. m. it was missing. He notified the Blue Valley Control Center in Wind Gap. They alerted police in the area.

Reinhardt said the only items taken from the truck were the ignition keys and a tool box. He did not say what tools, if any, were in the box.

Dr. Creitz Hits At 'Whispers'

EASTON — The Rev. Dr. Creitz, Democratic candidate for congressman from the 15th district, yesterday said there was a top level strategy meeting in the home of Mrs. Warford Heller of 2246 Feary St., Easton.

Dr. Creitz, who is opposing Rep. Fred B. Rooney in the election today, said he took note of a last minute whispering campaign which says he would have divided loyalty.

He said, "The payroll I'll be on is the government's. My salary as a clergyman would cease altogether."

He also mentioned that his running for political office was not a precedent-shattering affair. "Many clergymen have regarded politics as a wider field of service. Actually there are 11 ministers in congress now. Clergymen have not only been congressmen but senators and governors. One of them even became President of the United States. James A. Garfield was an ordained minister," he said.

24-Year-Old Held On Bail

STROUDSBURG — Eric Walter Strauch, 24, who gave addresses of 813 Phipps St. and 20 N. Third St., both in Stroudsburg, was committed Saturday to the Monroe County Jail on charge of operating a motor vehicle during a period of license suspension.

He was arrested by Stroudsburg police and held in default of $500 bail after arraignment before Stroudsburg Justice of the Peace John C. Foelker.

Russian Advertising

Advertising is both a public service and an economic necessity for businessmen in the competitive American supermarket of goods and services which overwhelm shoppers with choices.

Advertising is a form of news in which the seller informs the buyer of the price, dimensions, advantages, and contents of his product. If accurate and honest, as it should be, advertising is essential to swift and thrifty shopping in the supermarket, drug store, department store.

But advertising is only necessary when there is a choice and an abundance of goods and services for consumers to choose.

Russian Communists have long ridiculed American advertising as one of the decadent characteristics of capitalism.

Actually it is one of the proofs of the success of free enterprise capitalism in producing goods and services at competitive prices which everyone can pay.

You do not have to sell your soul, join the Communist party, hold high government position, or bribe someone to buy a refrigerator, toaster, watch or electric razor in America today. An automobile is not a luxury of the privileged class.

But in Russia there is a dawning awareness of the uses of advertising. An article in Isvestia, the government newspaper, has suggested the need for government advertising to help Russian people decide which refrigerator is best.

What is the difference between Zil, Dneiper and Saratov refrigerators? It is difficult for a Russian to find out without buying one of each and trying them all out—an economic impossibility.

So the government newspaper suggests that the small, but growing, Russian production of consumer goods has brought the need for informative advertising.

But unfortunately, Russians have accepted their own propaganda stereotype of American advertising as "cheap temptations and evil influences engendered by the electric frenzy of Broadway in New York City."

The advertising discussion in Isvestia is another humorous example of increasing Russian discoveries of the reality of capitalist economies through the confusing smokescreen of Russian propaganda.

President Johnson's Security

President Johnson raised some understandable fears last week when he rode in an open car, shook hands in a crowd of admirers who nearly crushed him, and made many impromptu public speeches in open places during his visit to Appalachian poverty sections.

But, when asked about his security in crowds by a reporter at his Saturday news conference, the President made a sensible reply to those fears.

He said what his security men have told him and others admitted after President Kennedy's assassination.

He explained that if someone really is intent on harming the President, he can do it, and if he is intelligent, cannot be stopped.

The White House security forces, swelled to army force since the Nov. 22, 1963, assassination, can stop a madman if he enters a hall where the President is speaking, carrying a rifle, or rushes at him in a street.

But it is next to impossible to prevent a shooting like that which took place in Dallas in an open street, unless the President decides to go into permanent hiding. Even then there are opportunities for a determined assassin.

The major protection for President Johnson is the respect of the American people for the President of the United States and for their own security.

It is not necessary or wise for the President to go into hiding. But it is certainly necessary for his security forces to continue to do as much as possible to prevent lunatics from attacking him.

Comment Of The Day

"If I stayed in this room all the time and it was guarded around by a section of guards, there would be less danger than there is if you go out and address a public meeting . . .

"But my intentions are to see the people, to talk to them, and I will be on open platforms. I will be on an open stage. I will be at an open desk. I will be in an open car on occasions."

—President Lyndon B. Johnson.

George Dixon

Eider Up

By George Dixon

WASHINGTON — It takes five ducks to produce a pound of downy feathers. The General Services Administration has $859,000 pounds on hand. As the bird-counters would say, there must have been a duck explosion. It's enough to make the American Medical Association stop fighting medicare and go after quacks.

Did you imagine that this nobly-plumed nation had so many defeathered ducks? The independent offices subcommittee of the Senate appropriations committee couldn't imagine it either. The Senators were nonplussed when GSA Administrator Bernard L. Boutin revealed the billowing extent to which the government had overfeathered its nest.

The lawmakers weren't tickled by so many feathers — especially after Boutin disclosed that the price had dropped away down. Until that moment they had no inkling that down was down.

Several said they'd been reclining in a fool's paradise, confident that down was up. It came as no comforter either when one untufted solon stated:

"It's eider up or down."

Administrator Boutin said the stockpile would be even bigger except that he's sold off four million pounds of feathers in the last four years. Asked why so many feathers had been bought in the first place, he replied that the military thought it could use them for sleeping bags.

Apparently, the way things are going in South Viet Nam, Laos and other parts of the world, the military isn't sleeping as much as anticipated.

The GSA boss told the senators the stockpile picture isn't all gloomy. Diamonds, he said, are up. He revealed that diamonds, sapphires and rubies are being snatched up at profitable prices by a plant in Rolla, N. D., that makes bearings out of the gems.

The plant is manned by Chippewas. The government discovered that the Indians had acquired precision skills from their own native handicrafts.

From the GSA, the senators also learned some fascinating things about the surplus business. Chairman Warren G. Magnuson remarked that a lot of the stuff he saw on sale in the surplus stores seemed brand new.

"It's supposed to be world war two surplus," said Senator Magnuson. "How can it look so spanking new after eighteen years?"

This question was answered by Robert T. Griffin, Assistant GSA administrator.

"The manufacture of 'surplus' stuff is awfully big business," said Mr. Griffin. "It's made new for the 'surplus' stores."

"Do you mean," said Senator Magnuson, "that factories are making stuff to be sold directly to civilian consumers without going through the government middleman at all?"

Mr. Griffin said he meant just that. Chairman Magnuson shook his head, and observed that under this system articles were surplus before they were made.

Senator Gordon L. Allott of Colorado wanted to know how the stores that are supposedly selling government surplus get around the truth in advertising laws.

"They sneak weasel words into their ads," replied Mr. Griffin. "The ads read, 'government type shoes, like government items.'"

The GSA officials then made the senators feel less like stepchildren by revealing that they had snatched away scores of chauffeur-driven limousines from bureaucrats.

"Heaven be praised!" cried Senator Allott devoutly. "I can get to work on time now that the streets are not so clogged with chauffeur-driven limousines."

The subcommittee session broke up when one of the senators revived a riddle from his nursery days:

Riddle: How do you get down off a horse? Give up? Answer: You don't get down off a horse, you get it off a duck.

No Outs, Bases Full

The Pennsylvania Story

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — The past three weeks have been frustrating weeks — frustrating that is, insofar as Pennsylvania's political hard — heads are concerned.

From an observer's standpoint it has been a most interesting period — one that sees fingernails gnawed to a nubbin and then gnawed back again.

It is this two or three-week period just before an election — either primary or general — that sends the shivers up and down the spines of the political old pros.

This is the period about which they are never sure. Is it a critical period—or is it meaningless?

No one has yet come up with anything approaching a specific, solid answer — and probably no one ever will.

The question is one that recurs with every election: can effective persuasion of voters be accomplished during the two weeks immediately preceding an election?

Although the primary election is being run off today, after all is said and done and the votes counted, the question will still remain unanswered as to just how effective the campaigning has been during these past two weeks in producing victory—or defeat.

Most observers and top party strategists are generally agreed that voters as a whole already made up their minds as to how they will vote prior to that two or three-week period preceding the actual election day.

Why then do campaigns still continue during this period, and in fact, up to the firing of the final gun itself?

It's somewhat of a paradox of course, but while the general consensus seems to be that last minute campaigning actually holds little if any effect — there's still that lone possibility!

Again it illustrates the complete uncertainty that dominates the campaign scene.

Warhorses of the old days — and there are some that still practice the "art" — used to delight in waiting until the very last minute to level a (supposedly) withering charge against an opponent; a charge leveled too late for opponent reply.

This sort of strategy used to be regarded as highly successful — although there was never any proof — but even this sort of thing began to wither on the vine as survey samplings revealed that, alas, an appalling number of voters never learned of the "great scandal!" until after the election was over!

This year in both Republican and Democratic camps the candidates have been hip-hipping it pretty well right up to the flourishing finish line.

But again the curious question recurs as to whether they should have folded their tents ten days or two weeks ago and returned home.

Supposedly it all boils down to that natural human element of believing that while there's life there's still hope; that a last minute fling may yet be "just the thing" to swing the balance wheel.

But perhaps one of the most amazing aspects of the campaign now ended has been the somewhat spirited job carried on by Secretary of Internal Affairs Genevieve Blatt in her determined bid for the U.S. senatorial seat — without Democratic Party endorsement, which had been handed to Judge Michael V. Musmanno.

Miss Blatt started out from the beginning with a full-blown campaign. Judge Musmanno seemingly held off until forced into the fray by Miss Blatt — but both have run their campaigns right up to the last minute!

This unquestionably has been "the" contest on the statewide level this year.

the local level and "who cares about the state scene."

How wrong can you get. Tomorrow will be too late to cry, "Can you imagine, Falstaff got nominated."

It will also be too late to "aid old Charley who deserved his party's nomination."

Today is the day to cast your vote. Just because uncontested contests are prevalent is no reason for a registered voter to stay away from the polling booths. From our look at the sample ballots, though, more than a few offices have more than one seeking nominations.

It is pitiful that it takes rock-throwing, name-calling campaigns to pull out the voter. Level heads that have prevailed in this pre-election dueling should be complemented by a better than 50 per cent turnout at the voting sites.

Just to refresh memories the Rep. Fred B. Rooney and Rev. Dr. George Creitz runoff for 15th Congressional District representative for the Democratic nomination heads a local dish for today's vote fanatics. The John Forench and H. John Davis battle for the GOP nomination for Monroe County assemblyman is available, too.

Then, there are the Mary Fontanella-Parke Unangst contest for GOP state committee-member, and the J. Joseph McCuskey-Mrs. Grace Palmer duel for Democratic state committeeman.

Of course, the Miss Genevieve Blatt and Michael Musmanno wing-ding for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate is enough to draw any staunch party faithful to the lever.

There are other fights on the ballot — more than enough to turn a "quiet and calm" primary into an interesting day at the polls.

The Allen-Scott Report

Johnson Aide

Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — Bill Moyers, 30-year-old ordained Baptist minister, is rapidly emerging as the dominant figure on President Johnson's White House staff.

With the same "can do" forcefulness that his boss constantly proclaims, Moyers has commandeered the office previously occupied by Theodore Sorensen, No. 1 aide of the late President Kennedy.

From behind his impressive new desk, Moyers has taken over the direction of the entire White House staff, including the recruiting of new members and staffing of key positions in other government agencies.

Under a private agreement with Kenneth O'Donnell, a former Kennedy aide now serving as Johnson's appointment secretary, Moyers has been given the final say on all visitors' appointments.

A slender Texan who has been at Johnson's side since the new President succeeded Kennedy, Moyers is using the Peace Corps, where he had served as deputy director, to recruit new staff members for both the White House and the Democratic National Committee.

Despite the violent objections of such trusted Johnson aides as Special Assistant Walter Jenkins and Clifton Carter, the President's top political advisor, Moyers has succeeded in bringing back into the White House Richard Goodwin, the former free-wheeling Latin American "expert" who favors normalizing U. S. relations with Communist Dictator Castro.

Goodwin, whose Latin American capers with pro-Castro politicians got him quietly shifted to the Peace Corps under the late President Kennedy, is back at his old stomping grounds, writing speeches and handling special assignments from Moyers.

Building An Empire — Moyers also has succeeded in breaching the tight defenses of Clifton Carter, long-time Johnson aide, by installing Lloyd Wright, another Peace Corps official and staunch supporter of Attorney General Robert Kennedy, as head of the Democratic National Committee's publicity department.

At present, Moyers is waging a backstage battle with Carter and Jenkins to expand this mushrooming empire. He is trying to add to the White House staff Wilson D. McCarthy, congressional relations officer of the Peace Corps.

While the Carter-Jenkins team has temporarily blocked McCarthy's official transfer, Moyers has given his private White House pass to McCarthy, who is serving as his private "messenger" to Attorney General Kennedy.

White House insiders report that McCarthy can be seen trotting back and forth between the White House and Justice Department several times a day with an occasional call at Sargent Shriver's anti-poverty office. What McCarthy does, if anything, for the Peace Corps is the big mystery at the White House.

Moyers, still officially on the Peace Corps payroll at $20,000 a year, holds the titles of "assistant to the President" and "deputy director" of the Peace Corps.

By wearing both hats concurrently and commandeering Sorensen's former office, Moyers has succeeded in becoming the most influential member of the White House staff in less than four months.

The big question reportedly being raised by such Johnson veterans as Jenkins and Carter, who are constantly being out-manuevered by the young minister, is how does Moyers plan to use his new power between now and the last week in August, when the Democratic national convention meets to nominate its presidential candidate.

Moyers, liaison man between the Johnson and Kennedy groups during the 1960 presidential campaign already is shooting for a kingmaker's role at the convention.

He and O'Donnell are reorganizing the powerful "Presidents' Club," which consists of $1,000-a-year donors to the Democratic party. Traveling together on overnight hops from Washington to major cities, they have been soliciting members while privately boosting Bobby Kennedy for a place on the 1964 ticket.

Inside White House — When White House visitors ask Kenneth O'Donnell, the late President's closest political adviser, whether Attorney General Robert Kennedy would accept the vice presidency with President Johnson, he replies: "I can't believe any Democrat would turn down the President, if asked." . . . At the moment, O'Donnell is convinced that Johnson is in better political shape throughout the country than President Kennedy was at the time of his assassination. He stresses that Johnson has picked up strength for the party in the Rocky Mountain states and the Far West . . . The Chief Usher has complained to the First Lady that so many activities are now going on in the White House that the staff simply does not have time to keep the President's home in order. Tours now last until 2:00 p.m. instead of noon each day, and with an average of two lunches, a music and tea every day, the staff is overworked. "We don't even have time to change the light bulbs," he reported.

Dear Abby

Let It Ride!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Four of us mothers in the neighborhood have a car pool. We alternate driving our children to school in the morning. One mother made all the children late five times last month. The late mother always has an excuse (small baby at home, she overslept, she forgot to set her alarm clock), but no excuse is acceptable at school and it goes against the children's records. Should we drop this mother from our car pool? I hate to cause hard feelings but I would just as soon drive the kiddies myself to be sure mine get there on time. How should this be handled?

ON TIME MOTHER

DEAR ON TIME: Since the school term is almost over, don't tell her you want to drop her from the car pool. Tell her you have the time, and do not mind driving the youngsters in her place. And next year, when you organize a car pool, include Mrs. Always-Late Out!

DEAR ABBY: About three years ago someone asked you why a man who has a lady for a wife will pick up some tramp and treat her like a lady, but then he will turn around and treat his wife like a tramp. You gave a terrific answer, but I can't remember how you worded it. Will you please give it again?

ANNAPOLIS

DEAR ANNAPOLIS: "A man picks up a 'tramp' because he wants a female companion who is no better than he is. In her company he doesn't feel inferior. He wants her by treating her like a 'lady.' He treats his wife, who is a lady, like a tramp because he feels that by degrading her, he will bring her down to his level. This makes him feel guilty. So, in order to get even with his wife for making him feel guilty, he keeps right on punishing her."

DEAR ABBY: To make a long story short, I slipped for a guy and in order to make him like me more, I tried to make him jealous. But that was a mistake. He got sore and started to date my best friend. I pretended I didn't care and got his best friend interested in me. So now the four of us date all the time (my date is a creep). And it's killing me to see the man I love with his arm around my best friend. What to do?

SUFFERING

DEAR SUFFERING: Having outsmarted yourself you had better pull out of this foolish foursome and look around for new friends and a fresh outlook on life.

CONFIDENTIAL TO N.J.R.: Cheer up. The only man I ever heard of who got his work done by Friday was Robinson Crusoe.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Playing With Lights

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Recently a 58-year-old man happily left a hospital in New York City after having recovered from a serious abdominal operation. The doctors, nurses and personnel delightedly bade him farewell because his departure represented a triumph over disease.

Within 20 minutes after he left, this patient was returned to the same hospital, to the same room, and to the same solicitous care of those who had just contributed to his cure. In this short interval, his nose and jaw had been fractured in an automobile accident.

He was a victim of a game one might call "automobile tennis."

Irresponsible Drivers

This hazardous game is played by irresponsible drivers who use automobiles as the tennis racket and pedestrians as the tennis ball. The city streets are the tennis court and intersections, the tennis net.

On city streets where there are progressive, synchronized lights, the trick is to keep going for endless blocks without "getting caught" by a red light and having to stop.

Three Rules

The first rule of the game is to speed in order to catch the green light at every corner. The second rule is to time the rate of speed so as to be at the intersection just as the light changes from red to green, and thus proceed without pausing. The third rule is to see how close the "progressive" motorist can come to hitting a crossing pedestrian or cutting off another car without drawing blood or scratching a fender.

Such immature, driving patterns of the reckless and irresponsible cause injury and even death. The endless efforts of scientists and physicians to safeguard lives and health do not deserve this careless disrespect for safety.

Playing with lights saves no time. It might even end it.

Cirrhosis of the Liver

Cirrhosis of the liver is often mistakenly identified as the exclusive disease of the alcoholic.

Certain types of cirrhosis unquestionably are most prevalent among alcoholics. However, it is thought that malnutrition makes the alcoholic, and frequently the non-alcoholic, susceptible to this condition.

Essentially, cirrhosis of the liver is a chronic disease that changes the architecture of the liver and interferes with its proper function.

Varied Symptoms

The symptoms are so varied and often so similar to other liver and gall bladder conditions that self-diagnosis of "cirrhosis" usually proves to be unfounded. Clinical examination by a physician, substantiated by special liver function tests and blood studies, is necessary for an accurate diagnosis.

The progression of this condition can often be stopped and kept under control when the diagnosis is made early by the physician.

Stories Behind Words

by William S. Penfield

Pluck

A "pluck of lights" is an old name for the heart, liver and lungs of a small beast.

The word "pluck" in the phrase refers to the fact that these organs were jerked out of or plucked from the carcass. "Lights" refers to the lungs, which have little weight in proportion to their size. A "pluck of lights" was shortened long ago to "pluck."

In medieval times the heart and liver were considered the seat of heroism or courage. Since two of the organs in the "pluck" were the heart and liver, "pluck" became a synonym for courage or determination in such expressions as "He has a lot of pluck."

Bicycle - Riding Caution Urged By Police

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg Borough Police yesterday reminded parents and children of the need for caution and safety during the spring and summer months concerning bicycle riding.

Stroudsburg Police urge children not to ride their bicycles in the business district. Stroudsburg Chief of Police John B. Tretheway said this pertains primarily to the two-wheel bicycles.

He added that even the smaller bikes can be dangerous and harmful, especially to elderly persons. Also, the borough ordinance reveals that a fine of not more than $5 may be imposed.

In East Stroudsburg, Borough Ordinance number 49 does not allow any bicycles on the pavements. According to the ordinance the only thing that may be driven on the pavement is a baby carriage.

The Borough Managers Office reminded parents that a fine of not less than $5 or more than $10 may be imposed for violation of this ordinance.

Nine Deeds Filed At Courthouse

STROUDSBURG — Nine deeds were filed yesterday in the office of Mrs. Jeannette F. Batory, Monroe County recorder.

They were Sally A. Boyer of Palmerton to William B. Wisner of New Providence, N.J., property in Polk Twp.; Allen S. and Roseley C. Neal of Stroud Twp. to Robert R. and Janet M. Burkett of Saylorburg RD 2, property in Stroud Twp.

Also Chester L. and Mabel L. Singer of Jackson Twp. to Leslie E. Singer of Jackson, property in Jackson; John P. and Olympia Flaherty on Bronx, N.Y., to Clark S. and Mary M. Smith of Coolbaugh Twp. property in Coolbaugh Twp.

Fritz and Margaret Dalton of Barrett Twp. to Pocono Farms, Inc., 50 acres in Coolbaugh Twp. worth $30,000; Robert L. and Jean D. White of East Stroudsburg RD 2 to John F. and Marcia E. Brush of East Stroudsburg RD 2, property in Price.

Also John Poleon of Old Forge, Julia Martz of Moosic, and Peter, Paul, Andrew and George Poleon of Buffalo, N.Y., to Angelo and Charina Senese of Brooklyn, N.Y., properties in Coolbaugh, Tobyhanna, and Pocono Twps.

Also Emma Brong and Alta Bond, administratrices of the estate of the late Stanton L. Heller, Jackson Twp., to Martin R. and Mary J. Rinker of Jackson Twp., Indian Mt. Lake Development Corp. of Kresgeville to Robert C. and Grace Van Reed, property in Tunkhannock Twp.

Greeting To Pastors

MOUNTAINHOME — At the recent kick-off dinner in Mountainhome Methodist Church, marking the beginning of the 10th anniversary celebration, it was noted that John George, lay leader, extended greetings to the former pastors attending.

Mrs. Warren Miller, mistress of ceremonies, introduced the guests who acknowledged the introduction with a brief comment.

Rev. John Roberts, pastor, greeted Rev. Harold MacMurray, guest speaker and spoke with the other guests at the dinner.

The book, "John Wesley's Religious Quest" written by former pastor, Rev. Thomas R. Jeffrey, was purchased by the Barrett Friendly Library, not donated as previously reported.

Dies In Crash

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—Lloyd Peterson Kin, an American technician who worked out of Erie, Pa. for General Electric, was killed Sunday in a train crash at Florida. He was inspecting the Northern Railway Company's diesel locomotives on the route from San Jose to Limon. The train he was on was hit from behind by a passenger train. Six others were seriously injured.

In addition, police from both boroughs urge that bicycle riders of all ages read and heed the following safety rules:

1. Observe all traffic regulations, red and green lights, one-way streets and stop signs.
2. Keep to the right and in a straight line, always riding in single file and do not ride too close to vehicle in front of you.
3. Give pedestrians the right of way and avoid sidewalk riding.
4. Watch out for cars pulling out into traffic and for doors opening suddenly.
5. Slow down at all intersections and look to the right and left before crossing.
6. To cross against heavy traffic, dismount.

Strunk Joins Largest Naval Air Command

SAN DIEGO — Stroudsburg Navyman Michael John Strunk, Jr., musician seaman apprentice, has reported to the North Island Naval Air Station, San Diego, Calif., to join the staff of Commander Naval Air Force, U.S. Pacific Fleet.

Strunk, son of Mrs. Vergie Strunk, of 320 Main Street, Stroudsburg, is joining the world's largest naval air command.

Vice Admiral Paul D. Stroop, Commander Naval Air Force, U. S. Pacific Fleet, administratively commands 13 aircraft carriers, three seaplane tenders, and nearly 3,000 aircraft. These units operate within the 83 million square mile area extending from the coast of the Americas to the Indian Ocean and from the Arctic to the Antarctic.

The 21-year old Navyman reported to ComNavAirPac from the Navy's School of Music, in Washington, D.C. Strunk will be assigned to the Naval Air Force, U.S. Pacific Fleet Band while at North Island.

Prior to joining the Navy, Strunk graduated from the Stroud Union High School.

PP&L Gives Six Rate Reductions

ALLENTOWN — More than 2,000 Pennsylvania Power and Light shareholders gathered at the Paramount Theater in Wilkes-Barre Monday, April 20, for the 44th annual meeting of the utility's shareholders. Jack K. Busby, president of the company, presided.

According to Busby, about 83 per cent of the 13,289,075 outstanding shares of PP&L, common stock were voted at the meeting, either in person or by proxy.

Busby said, "For several years, more than 80 per cent of the shares have been voted at the annual meetings. This is a very substantial percentage of our Company's shareholders, and it reflects a high degree of interest on the part of PP&L shareholders. It is also an expression of confidence in Company management, and, as such, is sincerely appreciated."

The 11 incumbent directors were re-elected by the utility's shareholders, who also voted to appoint Haskins & Sells to audit the Company's books for the year ending December 31, 1964. In discussing "Plans for the Growth of the Business," Mr. Busby emphasized the competitive nature of the Company's electric power business, and expressed his disagreement with the "historic notion that an electric power company is some sort of regional monopoly."

"The facts of life are that intensive competition with other forms of energy is increasingly evident in all of the main areas in which we seek to expand our business. For example, substantially more than 80 per cent of all energy used in the home is the subject of active competition between electricity and other kinds of energy."

Busby said that PP&L's plans for growth are based "entirely on the concept of being an effective and successful competitor in the field of energy supply and use. The only way we can grow and prosper is to provide our customers with a superior value in competition with other kinds of energy... with more cost reductions and technological improvements in sight there is every reason to believe we should be able to continue the long-term trend of lower prices for electricity."

"A prominent part of this favorable forecast is the coming availability of economic nuclear power. Thus, there is assurance in the years to come of plentiful low-cost power supply from the atom. Indeed, very much sooner than we had anticipated, nuclear power plants will be built on the PP&L system."

He pointed to six rate reductions made by the Company since September, 1961, totaling over $10 million, and cited specifically one result of these reductions — the heating cost of a typical all-electric home with 1200 sq. ft. of space to be heated has been reduced by nearly a third in just five years. A significant effect of these reductions is that revenues from all-electric home heating have increased substantially. For 1963, revenues from electrically heated homes were about $1 million. This was double the revenues for 1962 and they are expected to double again in 1964.

"We expect that further rate decreases will further improve our competitive position in the new home market, and will greatly help our penetration of the larger and more significant market of existing homes," he said. "At the same time, within this framework of good competitive performance we should also produce reasonable gains for investors and employees."

Ronson Reports Rise In Earnings

WOODBURG, N.J. — The Ronson Corporation today reported that net profits for the three months ended March 31, 1964, amounted to $534,964, representing an increase of approximately 13 per cent over the $470,903 earned for the same period last year.

Three month earnings per share were $3.25 as against $2.90 per share earned during January-March, 1963, adjusted to reflect a 2 per cent stock dividend paid Feb. 17, 1964. Consolidated net sales for the first three months of the year amounted to $12,587,767, or an increase of approximately 12 per cent over the January-March sales total of $12,038,213 for 1963.

Make It Smooth

The smoother a piece of wood, the finer finish it will take. Therefore, it is especially important that all furniture be sanded as smooth as possible before applying a durable and decorative furniture finish, says the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association.

Flexalum Is The Modern Construction Material

For more than 33 years, Sheldon Newell of 129 Huston Ave., Stroudsburg, has been the leading craftsman in the area in the construction of awnings, patio covers and the like.

The paramount thought has always been to give the customer the best value possible for the money. In keeping with this thinking, Newell has announced that he has been appointed as a dealer for the well-known Flexalum Aluminum Awnings.

Some people may say why do I need awnings? What can they do for me?

Anyone who has these handsome Flexalum awnings will clearly state that they help to keep the home cooler, keep the rain and weather from beating away at windows and help to shield the window from winter's harsh blasts.

Needless to say, Flexalum awnings enhance the appearance of the home too.

The aluminum parts or units that make up Flexalum awnings (and patio covers too) are finished with the finest materials available.

A special epoxy primer is used to undercoat the awnings and a gleaming baked enamel second coat is applied.

This finish cannot chip, crack or peel, and it lasts for years and years. Choose from a wide variety of colors including the new metallics.

With the coming of warmer weather, most Americans like to the great outdoors, even at home. You can make home more livable and enjoyable by adding a Flexalum Patio Cover now.

You'll find that barbecues are more fun, days are more comfortable, and in general, "the living is easier" with Flexalum.

All materials in Flexalum products are tested for durability, and construction methods are proven before the product is put on the market.

Every home should have Flexalum Awnings, Patio Covers, Porch Covers and Carports! A broad statement? Yes, but ask any Flexalum owner, then call Sheldon Newell (Phone 421-7430) for a free estimate or to discuss your problems. You'll benefit from his 33 years experience and from Flexalum's superior quality and construction.

Family Fare

By Pat Williams

Family Fashion Showing Presented Altar, Rosary

East Stroudsburg — "Family Fashions" provided by Famous Department Store were displayed for St. Matthew's Altar and Rosary Society Wednesday under the supervision of Mrs. Martin Ellwag and Mrs. Arthur Blewitt.

Pink and blue hydrangeas, spring flowers and spider orchids were the background for the models. Modeling were Mrs. Elmer Chura, Mrs. David McGarry, Mrs. John Powell, Mrs. Walter Cassola, Mrs. Edwin Millard, Mrs. George Rung and Mrs. Jack Mullins.

Also modeling were Miss Linda Blewitt, Miss Joan O'Neill, Miss Suzanne Rossi, Miss Mimi Nauman, Miss Beverly Taylor and Miss Amy Wunder. Mari Blewitt and Jamie Moyles modeling younger clothes.

Miss Rossi, current Junior Miss Pocono Mountains, performed an interpretive ballet during intermission.

Miss Marie Brown, president, received nominations during the business session. Elections were held. Mrs. Arthur Henning was elected president; Mrs. Harry Rogalski vice president; Mrs. Richard Smith, secretary; Mrs. John Powell, treasurer; Mrs. James Lorincz, financial secretary.

Mrs. Joseph Harrison, bazaar chairman, requested cooperation for the project. Mrs. James Moyles reported membership totaled 546.

Msgr. Thomas J. Cawley addressed the sodality and thanked Miss Brown and her committee for the success of the recent bazaar meeting.

Miss Eve Zatezny, spiritual coordinator, spoke on the value of virtue. Members were asked to encourage all teen-agers to attend the Saturday night dances in St. Matthew's auditorium.

Japanese Theme At Stroud Union Spring Formal

Stroudsburg — Social highlight for the senior class of Stroud Union High School, the senior's "Spring Formal" was held recently. The theme was "Tane Numa" or "Will This Last Forever."

Decorations in the school gym in sapphire blue and white, the class colors, covered the ceiling. A white arched bridge, a small pond and a misting tree completed the Oriental scene.

Faculty advisors were met by Miss Linda Kunkle, senior hostess as they crossed the bridge. Guests were then escorted to reserved tables decorated with Japanese birds, miniature parasols and chopsticks.

Dance programs were provided by Wyckoff's and Newberry's. A rock fountain, loaned by Howell's Florist, was surrounded by shrubbery from LaBar's Nursery.

A white picket fence edged the dance floor. Music was provided by Vacation Valley Band, which was set in a bamboo pagoda. Lighted Japanese lanterns hung from the pagoda as from the dance floor ceiling.

Fortune cookies were served by a committee of sophomore girls who also served the refreshments.

Cub Pack 129 Bird Houses In Contest

Newfoundland — Cub Pack 129, meeting in the April pack session at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday at the elementary school, will have a bird house contest with prizes.

A parents and families of the cubs are invited to attend, and an invitation has also been extended to any boy in the eight to 11 age group who would like to become a cub.

The April theme is "Cub Scout Naturalists." and the cubs have found Spring in the Poconos an ideal time to be outdoors pursuing the nature studies that are part of the theme.

The pack held a kite-flying contest recently under the leadership of Cubmaster Ray LaVigne, and the cubs all enjoyed the outing. Only about one-third of the kites were lost during the afternoon.

The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Florence Butz, 1137 W. Main St., Stroudsburg.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. Laura Marsh, Mrs. Sadie Stackhouse, Mrs. Martha Tinney, Mrs. Mary Cramer, Mrs. Florence Butz and Mrs. Lydia Kirkhoff.

Mother's Club Meets

Portland — The Mother's Club of Portland and vicinity will meet on Tuesday night April 28th at the home of Mrs. Mary Tucker at East Bangor. The meeting has been called for 8 p.m.

Quick lunch dish: add canned shrimp to a cheese sauce and serve over toast.

Role Of Church In Education Topic For Meet

Stroudsburg — The role of the church is higher education and the relationship of higher education to Christian vocation was discussed by Mrs. William C. Leopold, at a meeting of Lutheran Church Women recently. Referring to an article by Merida Brenne Bachmann, she said, the urgent need for Christian workers and theological students increases, therefore Christian Higher Education is a must.

Mrs. Shirley Cramer, in charge of devotions, read from Job, which stated, "And unto Man, he said, behold the fear of the Lord, that is wisdom; and to depart from evil is understanding."

Mrs. Edward Steinhauer, Mrs. Jacob Schmidt and Mrs. Bertha McConnell attended the April 20 meeting of the United Council of Church Women at Berwick, where Civil Rights was the topic.

The Christian Service Committee has been asked to alter bedspreads for the Laurel Manor. The spreads may be picked up at the Church office.

A covered dish supper was served and an auction was held with proceeds donated toward the building fund.

Mrs. Mabel Weiss, Mrs. Helen Walker and Mrs. Robert B. Smith were the hostesses. Those attending were Mrs. Bertha McConnell, Mrs. Jennie Meixell, Mrs. Mildred Knepp, Mrs. Jean Barthold, Mrs. Helen Walker, Mrs. Gladys Rundle, Mrs. Shirley Cramer, Mrs. May Smith, Mrs. Anna Meixell, Mrs. Almira Schmidt, Mrs. Henry Acker, Mrs. Ruth Walz, Mrs. Lillian Roberts, Mrs. Norma Roberts, Mrs. William Leopold, Mrs. Mabel Weiss, Mrs. Ruth Steinhauer, Mrs. Bertha Keller, Mrs. Mabel Sheeley, Mrs. Ruth Marshall, Mrs. Sophie Hardestine and Miss Thelma Shaw.

The club will sponsor a clean-up week for Portland which will be the week of May 4th, more announcements on this later. The club will sponsor a Poster Campaign for the children of the Portland school, grades 1 to 6. Prizes will be awarded. This will be in conjunction with Clean-Up week.

The nominating committee, Mrs. Leslie Steen, Miss Ella Jelinek and Mrs. James Garafolo, presented the following slate which was nominated and elected. Officers will be installed at the Banquet on June 1st. The slate was: President, Mrs. Leslie Steen, 1st Vice President, Mrs. Charles DeWitt, Recording Secretary, Miss Ella Jelinek, Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Dale Jones. Refreshments were served by the hostess committee who were Mrs. Donald Pfeiffer, chairman, co-hostesses were Mrs. Howard Ott, Mrs. Harry Michaels and Mrs. Raymond Beck.

Officers Elected At Mt. Pocono WSCS Meeting

Mount Pocono — The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church elected officers at a recent meeting at the church. Mrs. William Wright was reelected president.

Other officers are Miss Winifred May, vice president; Mrs. Earl Brock; treasurer, Mrs. Bina Walker, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles Whitlow, promotional secretary. They will be installed at the May meeting.

Mrs. Charles Peterson led the devotions and Mrs. Earl Dennis presented excerpts from the book "Christian Perfection". Mrs. Wright presided.

Mrs. Patrick Horgan was named to care for altar flowers for May. There will be a covered-dish supper and movie for the entire congregation on Sunday.

Book Review For Hadassah For Tonight

Stroudsburg — Mrs. Madalyn Maloney will review a book on the life of Israeli freedom-fighter Mickey Marcus at the meeting of the Stroudsburg chapter of Hadassah tonight in Temple Israel, Wallace St., Stroudsburg at 8 p.m.

Just Between Us—Calendar

by Bobby Westbrook

Skopje, Yugoslavia — The signs of last year's earthquake are still evident in Skopje; in the street facade, like those in a first-grader's teeth, and there is the fine dust of demolition everywhere. The Hotel Turist was not destroyed, only shaken, and seems quite secure with a few mine props on the lower story.

Actually, for the visitor, the earthquake is still omnipresent. The residents tend to ignore it and the streets were jostling with people buying shoes and men willing to exchange a shoestring for a cigarette. Actually, this is the first place we have felt "foreign" on our trip.

They—the people—look so bronzed, healthy, and indifferent. In fact, three women traveling alone don't begin to attract the attention they would in Italy—or even the United States. On the way to our first monastery—Manasija, in Despotovac, in a gorge of the Resava River—we passed a road construction project where a loose stone flew up against the car's innards that sounded as if it had ripped the entire bottom of the car loose. The workers along the way couldn't have cared less while we were prying it out—unaided!

We had started out early on the Autoput from Belgrade. The Autoput, although only two lanes, is paved, smooth, straight and most adequate since, for most of the day, we were the only car on the road. We were still enough of a novelty so that the children—shepherding the Morino sheep, pigs or a solitary cow, pasturing on the young grass along the highway—waved as we buzzed by.

Buzzed by through what—in Springtime at least—may well be the most beautiful countryside in the world. It is a landscape lifted right from Millet—"With The Gleaners" or "The Angelus" in living pictures on every hand. With horses and hoes, with heavy mallocks for hoeing, or a gathered apron for sowing seed, or a bent back for weeding, those landscapes came to life in the fertile plains which stretched to still-snow-capped mountains in the hot sunshine, turned pink by plum orchards.

We left the Autoput at Srebrenica to detour to the monastery—and promptly ran into a bridge block. It seems that the Orient Express and cars share the same bridge across the Resava River; and since the train was due—sometimes—we waited. Footpassengers, bicycles and motor bikes ducked under and crossed safely, but we waited for a half hour.

Reading, meanwhile, of the monastery, we were to visit. It was built between 1407-15 (before Columbus) by King Stefan, son of Prince Lazar—one of Serbia's George Washingtons—Despot Stefan (hence the town, Despotovac. See, Serbians: easy on you have a Cyrillic ABC to read it) who spent a fortune on the monastery, for gold leaf.

My name is in second place on today's primary ballot... please vote for me and make me first in the final vote-count!?

Our Table of the Month exhibit, with tables set up by 12 of the leading women's organizations in Monroe County, formally opens today with judging sometime late this morning or right after lunch. It should be exciting... and I can hardly wait to see the completed show. Do visit the Keystone Room sometime this week and observe how clever and original many of our club women are.

The monastery was also a fortress as we could see as soon as we glimpsed its 11 guard towers in the gorge. But, inside the warlike battlements was an oasis of peace with a sweet-faced nun in no mitred headpiece, but a black babushka, to show us the church, made of hewn stone in the Byzantine manner, and covered inside with frescoes just recently restored from the plaster and paint with which the conquering Turks had covered them. Inevitably, some of the original frescoes had been destroyed so the effect is of seeing a painting through a fog—now clear, now fading away—but, for art students they fill an important role in the development of Byzantine art in the Middle Ages.

As for me, the serenity of the church set within the walls and battlements, the cry of rooks or ravens or whatever Europeans call crow-sized birds that go "rook" instead of "caw" from the trees and the daffodils and narcissus in the leafing rose garden were benison enough. But, this was our first Byzantine monastery, and the first place we offered a gift of the incense we had lugged across the Atlantic. The results were more than worth it. The little nun had us sign the guest book and offered us the traditional Serbian greeting—the selokha (well, it sounds sort of like that)—a spoonful of very sweet preserves and a glass of water.

With that we were most prepared for Skopje. We are following the proposed itinerary, but somehow, have covered the territory a day ahead of schedule. So Skopje needs a bit of preparation. The earthquake damage is still oppressive—and the people, gold-drenched by Southern sun—seem strange. We were the only women in the crowded dining room of the hotel where we have the bridal suite, but no bellhops.

But that's where the frescoes are a comfort. Particularly the one over the West door of the monastery. It is the hand of God—curved in relaxation, in which rest the children of the world-bound like so many dolls in swaddling clothes but looking very secure. So do I feel—a stranger in a strange land in a hotel somewhat crumpled by an earthquake—but safe, nevertheless.

Attending the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. David Nauman, of Woodland Road, Mount Pocono, maternal grandparents; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kistler of Greentown, paternal grandparents; Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Shiffer and son Mark of Bangor, Maine.

Mrs. Harvey Kipp of Bethlehem, great-aunt.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Jerald Williams and Pamela, of Canadensis; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kreckman and Linda of Cresco; Mrs. Paul Doty and Mrs. Stella Simmons, both of Gilbertsville.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

A woman could feel rather sad, I suppose, having her last birthday prior to 50—but everyone was so wonderful about mine last Friday it was absolutely painless. Not only did I receive more than my just due of birthday gifts, but one of our executives (who sometimes gives me a VERY hard time) went so far as to assure me he would do everything in his power to keep from saying one unkind thing to me all day long—providing I didn't push my luck! We always speak of ours as a friendly store, but I am more and more impressed each year how—when trouble hits, or something joyous happens—everyone of our store family seems to rally 'round with good wishes.

My thanks too, to those who remembered with cards and thoughtful messages... and to the friend who telephoned me with his own poetic version of the Happy Birthday song. You know... I almost wish the year wasn't 12 months long!

GLISSANDO is the name of the new marbled lipstick by DuBarry that promises to make women's lips more provocative and beautiful than ever before. I haven't tried it as yet, but I do think it looks most interesting... and, if all that Helen Diamond says of it is true, I'm sure women of all ages will flock to buy—even at 2.50 a tube.

At first glance, many customers might assume something was wrong with this lipstick—that it was "separating" or something, for it definitely looks marbled, with a wave of white threading its way through color. This is exactly how it is supposed to be, however, and when applied it has the same soft, appealing effect as color spread over a film of white. Very feminine... and the shades are marvelous: reds, pinks, corals, and oranges that are summery and scintillating.

This is National Baby Week, and while all babies are adorable, I think those who have visited our Wyckoff store recently with their proud Mommies and Grandmamas are just about the most precious I have ever seen. One young lady who was receiving a king-size hand-out of love and kisses the other morning at our Wyckoff fountain is the tiny granddaughter of Mildred Shoemaker. All in white, she looked darling—and it was impossible to see the saucy white satin bow on the back of her tiny bonnet without chuckling.

Wyckoff's second floor infants' department is a real Babyland where your favorite child is in complete command. All that is gathered together there has been selected with a fond eye to a child's comfort, safety, and sense of well-being. From the tiniest rattle to the most complete bathinette or playpen, nothing has been overlooked... so, whether you are buying for the baby who has not yet arrived, the new arrival, the baby who rules the roost at your home or in the home of a friend, WYCKOFF'S is the perfect place to begin and end your shopping.

Our Table of the Month exhibit, with tables set up by 12 of the leading women's organizations in Monroe County, formally opens today with judging sometime late this morning or right after lunch. It should be exciting... and I can hardly wait to see the completed show. Do visit the Keystone Room sometime this week and observe how clever and original many of our club women are.

GOP Candidates Visit Council In Pocono Pines

The Top of the Mountain Council of Republican Women met Monday at Mountain Lodge, Pocono Pines, with Mrs. Harry Eberhart presiding.

Mrs. Alice Shotwell, chairman of the Legislative Committee, reported on the proposed amendment to the State Constitution dealing with eminent domain, which would provide a "square deal" for property owners, and urged members to go "all out" in its support.

Political activities chairman, Mrs. George Kerrick, read a letter from Senator Scott which stated his intention to work to put the Lord's Prayer back in school. Senator Scott believes in separating church and state, but does not believe in separating children from God.

A change in the meeting date of the council from the third to the second Monday of the month was approved. This will eliminate a conflict of meetings in the area and enable more women to attend council meetings.

Plans were made to hold spaghetti supper and a White Elephant Sale, followed by a game party, on Saturday, May 16, at the Naomi Lake Boat House, Pocono Pines.

The next meeting was scheduled to be held at the Pocono Pines Fire House on Monday, May 11.

The meeting was turned over to Mrs. Kerrick, program chairman, who presented the following candidates in the Primary election to speak to the Council:

John Davis, candidate for assemblyman; John Forrebeck, candidate for assemblyman; Mrs. Mervin (Mary) Fontanella, candidate for State Committee-woman; Parks Unangst, candidate for State Committee-woman and William Quinn, candidate for Assemblyman.

Refreshments were served after the meeting to members, candidates and visitors.

Poc. Manor Site For GOP Meet

Pocono Manor — A Republican conclave was held recently at Pocono Manor Inn where Lester Burela of Honesdale, a member of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, was guest speaker.

Harold Kresge, Monroe County Republican chairman, welcomed the candidates and Mrs. Burela.

Other guests present were candidates for primary election, Mary Fontanella, Paradise Township (state committeewoman); John Jack Davis, Mt. Pocono and Jack Ferrebeck, East Stroudsburg (state representative); Leo McCormick, South Sterling (U. S. representative) and Parke Unangst, Shawnee (state committeewoman).

Introduced by Mrs. David Blasing, Mt. Pocono, program chairman and vice president, each candidate spoke briefly of his qualifications for office and of his support of Governor Scranton's administration.

President H. Elise Bryan presided. Refreshments were served to the 50 present.

Altar, Rosary Communion Breakfast Set

Canadensis — The annual St. Ann's Altar and Rosary Society communion breakfast has been set for May 17, it was announced at a recent meeting.

The breakfast will be served at Hillside Lodge, Canadensis, following the 9 a.m. Mass. All members of the sodality have been requested to attend the mass in a group.

Mrs. Harold Kreske, Mrs. Leon Meyung and Mrs. Edwin Caprioli are in charge of arrangements. They suggested that members take their daughters to the mass and breakfast.

Mrs. Allen Shollenberger spoke on the life of Mother Sorrento, who, if canonized will be the first saint in the Catholic Church from the United States.

Mrs. Blake Frazier reported that more than 70 children attended the Easter Egg Hunt.

Mrs. Kreske and Mrs. Meyung visited Pleasant Valley Manor in March; Mrs. Phillip Pasquini and Mrs. Milo Megargel in April, and Mrs. Lester Caulfield and Mrs. Edwin Caprioli, are to go in May.

Mrs. Charles Villa reported on the June Card Party, with date and place to be announced.

It was announced that children from Pocono Catholic Missions school will participate in the second annual May crowning at St. Mary's of the Mount Church, Mount Pocono.

The next deaconry meeting is set for May 3 at 2 p.m. at Our Lady of the Lake Church, Tobyhanna.

Friendly Soc. At Miss Gruber's

Stroudsburg — The Friendly Society of Zion United Church of Christ met recently at the home of Miss Helen Gruber.

Mrs. Alina Deihl, president, announced that a new shipment of dish clothes and vanilla is due.

The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Florence Butz, 1137 W. Main St., Stroudsburg.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. Laura Marsh, Mrs. Sadie Stackhouse, Mrs. Martha Tinney, Mrs. Mary Cramer, Mrs. Florence Butz and Mrs. Lydia Kirkhoff.

Mother's Club Meets

Portland — The Mother's Club of Portland and vicinity will meet on Tuesday night April 28th at the home of Mrs. Mary Tucker at East Bangor. The meeting has been called for 8 p.m.

Quick lunch dish: add canned shrimp to a cheese sauce and serve over toast.

Bangor Fair Winners Listed

MT. BETHEL — An estimated crowd of more than 1,500 persons attended the Second Annual Achievement Fair staged on Friday evening in the Bangor Area Joint Junior High School by students of the 7th, 8th and 9th grades.

The second straight year the fair was under the direct supervision of Edward Demansky, instructor of art in the junior high school.

Judges were: Mrs. Jean Callahan, Mrs. Elizabeth Gleim, Mrs. Mary Hosler, Mrs. Virginia Wynne, Mrs. Lois Nester, Mrs. Marie Harding, Fred Reinhardt, Earl F. Lutz, Lynn Cope, Jay A. Young, Mrs. Sandra James, Miss Helen Rocha, Mrs. Linda Demansky, Mrs. Bernice Lewis, Walter Ebert, Rocco Drago, Miss Irene Jurabala, Mrs. Barbara Lantz, Warren O. Hahn, and Donald G. Hard.

The fair featured more than 400 projects covering a variety of areas from home economics through mathematics, sciences, industrial arts, geography, history and art as well as other related fields.

A total of 81 ribbons representing first, second and third places as well as honorable mentions were listed as the winners in the highly successful junior high school function.

Projects were completed under the advice and direction of various members of the junior faculty during the past several months. The fair this year was more easily viewed than during the first year due to the fact that it was held in two areas of the school. Science and mathematics projects were displayed on the floor of the gym while all other projects were on display in the school cafeteria.

Judging of the projects was made after school on Friday and the fair was open to the general public from 7 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. on that day. Local police assisted in the handling of the large amount of traffic.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Tuesday, April 28, 1964
March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A favor here, a favor there, pretty much a wonderful cooperation and a mutual feeling of "you are my friend."

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — He comes but not stays, eager to get out of your hands but not unkind of others. Your attitude can change the whole picture, one way or the other.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini) — Don't allow your enthusiasm to lead you into all sorts of suggestions; do not follow merely because they "sound good."

June 21 to July 20 (Cancer) — An average in many ways, yet there will be new situations and trends evolving that must be watched. You may have a chance to set some new records, but note that pitfalls also exist.

July 21 to August 20 (Leo) — Increasing benefits are indicated, but you will have to strive harder for the full returns possible. Look into the heart of things; search for true values.

August 21 to September 20 (Virgo) — Multiple accomplishments recently may not be repeated even under the same circumstances. However, attainment is possible in new areas.

September 21 to October 20 (Libra) — Be careful of details; avoid misgivings, a trend toward evenness and calmness. Do not prevent many errors if you see an error about.

October 21 to November 20 (Scorpio) — Look to suggestions carefully. Do not let your "I can't" attitude prevent you from seeing the possibilities of success.

November 21 to December 20 (Sagittarius) — Try to find a new way in which to do your job. It will bring money, but not as much as you expect. Success is within your grasp.

December 21 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Put fear and ambition into this fine day and stress optimism. That is the only way that is needed to insure success. Better than average opportunities; look about.

January 21 to February 20 (Aquarius) — You won't get far with a crowd during this progressive period. Neither will you gain if you just sit and wait for your chance. Seek, inquire, explore.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Search out those "small" advantages in forgotten or overlooked corners; they total up nicely. Balance your schedule carefully. Be alert.

YOU BORN TODAY? You can do more in a short time, and while you more quickly, are also an accurate thinker. If developing your mind and knowledge. On the other side, the Taurus is noted for dignity, logic, perseverance, amiability and consistent endeavor. Your faults erupt with unrestrained force, wanted effort, emotionalism. Listen to that "small" voice within; count on when irritated, fifth of day. Jas. Monroe, 5th U.S. President.

Pocono Sub-District YF Installs Officers For '64

HOLLISTERVILLE — "We trust you will find it a privilege to share in the leadership of Pocono Sub-District Youth Fellowship and will carry out the theme which has guided the MYF since its organization in 1941: 'Christ Above All'."

Rev. Marvin Schell, Moscow, told the new officers of the sub-district who were installed at Hollisterville Sunday night.

The Rev. Donald Jones, of Hamlin-Lake Ariel, offered the dedicatory prayer at the close of the installation, at which Rev. Schell officiated.

Elected during the meeting were the following: Robert Peters, Lake Ariel, president; Donald Dickinson, Greentown-Newfoundland — South Sterling, vice president; Cheryl Crossman, Sterling, recording secretary; Donna Dolan, Sterling, treasurer; John Beers, Moscow, corresponding secretary; Artie Williams, Hollisterville, and Doris Croom, Moscow, district representatives; Connie Kelter, Greentown — Newfoundland-South Sterling, faith chairman; Elaine Macdonough, Hamlin-Lake Ariel, and Peggy Bancroft, Greentown — Newfoundland-South Sterling, advisors. Rev. Schell is the ministerial advisor, appointed by Rev. Dr. E. V. Tolley, district superintendent.

The new officers succeeded the following, who also participated in the installation: Howard Beaumont, president; Mary Ann Beaumont, vice president; June Ames, recording secretary; Margaret Shaffer, corresponding secretary; Dale Williams, treasurer; Ginger Parke, faith chairman; Ronald Swingle, Marcus Schell, district representatives.

Members of the YF's of Cortes, Lakeville, Daleville, Goldsboro, Hollisterville, Sterling, Hamlin-Lake Ariel, Maplewood, Greentown — Newfoundland-South Sterling, Maple Lake and Moscow, attended the rally and buffet supper. There were 135 in attendance.

The film, "What Happened to Jo-Jo?" was presented at the close of the business meeting. The executive committee, including the 1963-64 officers and the 1964-65 officers, will meet on May 12 at the home of Artie Williams at 7:30 p. m.

The buffet supper at the rally was served in the Hollisterville Community Hall by the Women's Society of Christian Service of the church.

Whistlin' In Dark

LOS ANGELES—One of baseball's lingering mysteries—why Ralph Branca threw a home run pitch to Bobby Thomson in the celebrated playoff of 1951—has been solved at last with an historic disclosure by Charlie Dressen, manager at the time of Branca and the Dodgers.

It was Sherlock Holmes who once confided that the most complicated cases are broken by the least complicated clues, spotting a man with wrinkled, stained knees, he deduced correctly, for instance, that this was a guy who was digging a tunnel under the bank.

And so it has come to light, quite without fanfare, how Branca served a gopher ball which Thomson smashed out of the park with two on base, thus projecting the Giants into the World Series against the Yanks.

Seated on the dugout bench at Chavez Ravine the other night Dressen and his visitor were discussing Larry Sherry, the bullpen ace recently purchased by Detroit from the Dodgers.

Charlie observed that he has been trying to assist Sherry by whistling from the bench when Larry, in the act of stretching, holds his pitching hand incorrectly.

The stratagem is not new to Dressen. He has in his time whistled helpfully to Don Drysdale, Joe DiMaggio, Duke Snider and others. Of course many, including the foregoing, have told him, thanks just the same and Charlie has withdrawn, but with heart-felt compassion for the poor slob left to their own devices.

Asked to demonstrate his whistle, Dressen placed his forefinger and pinkie in his mouth and let loose a blast that made the bench vibrate.

It was now that the momentous story of the '51 playoff suddenly rolled out.

"I used to whistle to Branca," recalled Charlie. "He was all right as long as he threw. But when he aimed, it was curtains. I could tell when he was getting ready to aim—and I would give him the whistle."

Dressen brought in Branca to pitch to Thompson in the ninth inning.

"He threw the first one right down the middle for a strike," says Charlie. "On the next pitch, I saw he was getting ready to aim it inside."

A look of horror darkened Charlie's face.

"I went to the fingers," he continued, "but couldn't get them up there in time. The ball had left his hand."

The rest is a matter of record, except for the fixing of the responsibility. Where historians heretofore have placed the blame on Branca, Charlie makes it clear that if Old Sluggo Fingers had been alert, Ralph never would have aimed that pitch.

Since progress is Dressen's main product, he continues his lonely struggle for devices to enrich the skills of his players.

Right now, he is working closely with a well-known milk company on an instant breakfast, which Charlie is convinced will build up those performers unable to stomach food in the morning.

Where it had been our impression that ball players had no trouble with their appetites at any hour, and, in fact, even welcomed intravenous feeding while they slept, Dressen said no.

"Some people's chemistry won't let them face food until noon," he explained. "Take this fellow, for instance."

Charlie pointed to infielder Jake Wood, who stood in front of us.

"He don't eat good in the morning. This new instant breakfast is like getting two eggs and 17 other things, including orange juice. And all you do is pour the powder into a glass and take it with eight ounces of milk."

"Charlie's gonna make me a 200-pound man," boasted Wood, who now weighs 160.

As manager of the Tigers, Dressen has established spring and summer residence in Detroit, but makes it plain that he will keep his permanent home in Los Angeles.

"I gotta stay here now," he says. "I went and bought a cemetery plot. Got one with a view. It's right next to Mary Pickford's. This place is so high class you need a key to get in."

Now 65, Charlie insists he has no complaints, and, in fact, has been ahead of the game since the age of 49 when he contracted typhoid fever in Texas.

"I was a goner at least twice," he recalls. "I was getting blood from a one-legged guy they found in the Elks Club. I was thinking what a fine fella this is—until they told me I was paying $75 a pop for his blood."

Obviously, a readjustment was required in Charlie's thinking, and it was made faster than he could whistle at Branca.

Mets Help Boost N. L. Attendance

NEW YORK (AP)—Intense interest in an expected tight National League pennant race and the renewed enthusiasm of New York Mets fans were reflected in an Associated Press survey of big league baseball attendance Monday.

The turnout count after two weeks of the 1964 campaign shows National League attendance 23 per cent ahead of last season. The aggregate for the 15 clubs is 932,098 compared to 757,365 in a similar number of home dates a year ago.

A. L. Total Down
The American League gate total is down 11 per cent with a 1964 aggregate of $77,282 compared to $86,274 in 1963.

The Mets, with an increase of more than 100 per cent for their first four home playing dates, top both circuits in turnout gain. They have drawn 118,426 paid in new Shea Stadium. A year ago in the Polo grounds, Casey Stengel's crew drew 53,730 over the first four games.

Seven other National League clubs are ahead of last season. They are the Los Angeles Dodgers 61,998; Milwaukee Braves 30,417; San Francisco

Hitting Stars Find Rough Road At Start

NEW YORK (AP)—Tommy Davis of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Carl Yastrzemski of Boston, the defending batting champions, head a celebrated group of major league ball players who've found rough going in the opening two weeks of the 1964 season.

Davis, the National League leader the past two years, was hitting only .209 with nine hits in 43 times at bat before he suffered an injury to his right shoulder Saturday.

Nine Safeties
Yastrzemski, the American League batting king of 1963, has only nine safeties in 40 tries for a .225 mark. The young outfielder hit .321 last season.

At Kaline of Detroit, Hank Aaron of Milwaukee and Dick Groat of St. Louis, other former batting titans, also are considerably below par. Kaline is hitting .212, Aaron .216 and Groat .188.

Kalene, the American League batting champ in 1955, finished at .312 in 1963. Aaron, twice a National League leader, and Groat, the top man in 1960, each finished at .319 in '63.

Others Drugging
Other top players well behind their normal gaits are Felipe Alou of Milwaukee at .160, Frank Robinson, Cincinnati .196, Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee, .150 and Harmon Killebrew, Minnesota, .190.

Meanwhile, Willie Mays of San Francisco and Frank Malzone of Boston have taken early leads in the batting competition.

Mays leads the National League with a .474 mark on 18 hits in 38 attempts. The veteran outfielder also leads in home runs with seven and runs batted in, 18.

Pocono Mountain Loses 2nd, 10-3

SWITZWATER — Pocono Mountain went down to its second straight defeat of the season yesterday as visiting Honesdale snatched a total of 10 hits and took advantage of six Cardinal errors for a 10-3 triumph.

Honesdale pushed across four runs in the second to gain a 4-1 lead and then added four more in the sixth and two in the seventh to seal the verdict.

Pocono Mountain, meanwhile, pecked away for single runs in the first, fifth and seventh frames.

Jerry Hanna, Card second baseman, went 2-for-4 at the plate, including a double, while batting across two of the runs. Dave Ruehlman also stroked a double for the losers.

Sebring Receives '64 Jacobsen

G. W. Sebring & Son of Fables Flats, off N. 5th St. at Ave. C in Stroudsburg is the authorized dealer in the Pocono Mountains for the famous line of Jacobsen Power mowers. Jacobsen mowers, with the famed Turbocone 4-blade exclusive feature, are rated as one of the smoothest, cleanest, and safest mowers in America today. Six lightweight power mowers are offered from 18 to 21 inch swaths and 3 Horsepower engines. Some new features for '64 are safe convenient controls, adjustable standup handles, lightweight magnesium deck, faster, easier starting, Jacobsen 321 engine, close trimming and quick height adjustment. Grass catchers are offered at optional extra cost. Jacobsen makes two riding mowers — the Javelin and the Chief. Javelin cuts a 26 inch swath, climbs 40% slopes, and can mow an acre of lawn an hour. The Chief, in 6, 8, and 10 Horsepower types is a year-round tractor. Over 37 attachments are available to do most any task in lawn and garden. Jacobsen also makes garden tillers for cultivation which have eight depth adjustments, forward and reverse control, adjustable handle for operator comfort, and many other Jacobsen features. Jacobsen also makes many type lawn mowers for commercial and industrial purposes. Many Golf fairways and greens in the Poconos are kept looking beautiful with Jacobsen mowers.

G. W. Sebring & Son also maintains a top-notch service department for all make mowers. A competent staff of machinists and machines are prepared to repair any mower that is out of service. Stop in today and see the entire '64 line that's just arrived.

Yale Aide To Direct Kirkridge

STROUDSBURG — July 1 Prof. John Oliver Nelson will resign after 14 years at Yale University Divinity School to become director of Kirkridge, a study - retreat center off Rte. 191 near Bangor. He has been a Kirkridge leader since its founding in 1942.

As professor of Christian Vocation and Director of Field Work, Dr. Nelson has been a speaker and writer known across the country. He is chairman of the National Council of Churches Department of Evangelism, of the Church Peace Mission, and of Association Press (the YMCA publishing house).

He is the author of a dozen books and editor of several others.

A Pittsburgher, he received his B.A. from Princeton, B.D. from Edinburgh and McCormick Seminary, and Ph. D. from Yale. He has been a program executive of what are now the United Presbyterian Church, and the National Council of Churches.

The Kirkridge board, a non-denominational group, noted in announcing the appointment Dr. Nelson's "notable involvement on frontiers of social concern, devotion, liturgy, art forms, and renewal of doctrine" as particularly parallel to the special interests of Kirkridge program.

Two other staff appointments at Kirkridge were also appointed. They are the Rev. Jane Bone Nelson, a minister of the United Church of Canada, and Rev. Lawrence Telford Young, Methodist, of Wichita, Kansas. Mrs. Nelson, the wife of Dr. Nelson, is a graduate of the University of Toronto with her B.D. from Emmanuel College, in Toronto. Rev. Young, who recently returned from a year in Scotland with the Iona Community, a clergy-lay fellowship, is a graduate of Southwestern College and Yale Divinity School.

The three new staff members replace Joseph E. Platt and Edith Stratton Platt, leaders in the Society of Friends, who retire after 17 years as the resident secretariat at Kirkridge.

Yearly 1800 retreatants take part in several-day occasions of worship, discussion, silence, and manual work at the Kirkridge mountain campus of 400 acres overlooking the Poconos.

This year among 35 nationally known leaders in its program are Bishop J.A.T. Robinson of Woolwich, Philip H. Phenix of Columbia University, Dorothy Day of the Catholic Worker, Colin W. Williams of the National Council of Churches, Gerald J. Judd of the United Church of Christ, Archbishop Thomas D. Roberts, formerly of India, and Dean Willard Heckel of Rutgers Law School. Dr. and Mrs. Nelson and Mr. Young will take up their new Kirkridge duties July 1.

Mrs. Kingsley Honored By Kappa Unit

LEWISBURG — Mrs. John B. Kingsley, a summer resident of Stroudsburg, was a guest of honor of Kappa chapter of Sigma Chi, national social fraternity at Bucknell University, during the week-end celebration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the fraternity chapter.

Mrs. Kingsley is a granddaughter of the Rev. Theodore A. K. Gessler, who founded Kappa chapter in 1864.

At the close of the centennial anniversary banquet which attracted 500 members and guests, including representatives from the fraternity's national office, a history of Kappa chapter was dedicated to the Rev. Mr. Gessler. In her response Mrs. Kingsley spoke of the affection her grandfather held for the fraternity and the University and told the undergraduate chapter and alumni that she was "proud to be a part of the celebration and program."

Mrs. Kingsley and her husband, who is chairman of the board of International Boiler Works, were at one time full-time residents of Stroudsburg.

Car Smashed In Collision

FERN RIDGE — Two persons escaped injury Saturday in a two-car collision on Rt. 115 at 7:35 p.m. in Tunkhannock Twp. State Police at Fern Ridge said Richard L. Bradshaw, 23, of Bethlehem was traveling on Rt. 115 when he collided with the rear of a vehicle driven by Charles E. Payton, 49, of Bound Brook, N. J.

The Payton vehicle spun around, crossed over a high embankment and landed on its wheels.

'Tribute To Buddy Program' 156 Attend CD Briefing

BANGOR — Members of a special joint veteran's committee recently announced the names of the musical units which will participate in the "Tribute to a Buddy" program on Sunday, May 24, at the Bangor Memorial Park.

The units include the Brown and Lynch Band of American Legion Post nine, Easton; the Pen Argyl Legion Band of the Charles Nelson Lobb Post, and the Johnson Post Legion Band of Bethlehem.

The Johnson band has been state champion Legion band five times.

Also participating will be the Yellow Jackets Drum and Bugle Corps of the E. H. Evans Post 378 in Bangor, and the Bangor Area Joint Jr. High School Band.

Also the firing squad of the Dyle E. Bray Post 730, V.F.W., of Bangor, and the firing squad of Capobianco Martucci Post 750, American Legion, of Roseto.

Also the Sons of Legion Squadron of the E. H. Evans Post of Bangor.

Court Costs Go To Court

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The state Supreme Court was asked this week to rule unconstitutional a 104-year-old Pennsylvania law that allows a judge or jury to make a defendant pay the costs of prosecution when he is acquitted.

The law applies only to misdemeanors, such as an assault or carrying a gun. In felonies—robberies, murders, etc.—the state pays the costs.

Local Federal Aid Cost Estimated $1.18 Per $1

Special to the Record

NEW YORK — In terms of dollars and cents, how well does Monroe County fare under the Government's grants-in-aid program?

Does the cost of these grants, taking into consideration the share of the overall expenditures that must be borne by local taxpayers, render them worthwhile or a poor bargain?

A study of the grants and their state-by-state distribution has been made by the Tax Foundation, a non-profit organization that keeps tabs on public spending and taxation.

It shows just how much is sent to Washington from each area for every dollar that comes back in the form of aid. Some communities come out ahead on the exchange and some do not.

According to the figures, $37,600,000 of the taxes that were collected throughout the State of Pennsylvania in fiscal year 1963 went to Washington for the state's portion of the Federal aid program. About $286,200,000 was returned in grants of various sorts.

Paid Out $1,086,000

Monroe County taxpayers, a breakdown shows, paid out an estimated $1,086,000 and were awarded approximately $922,000 in grants.

This was equivalent to $1 in Federal aid for every $1.18 contributed.

The ratio varied widely between different sections of the country. In some states, the allotments were relatively larger than in others.

Sewage Grant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., announced Monday that the Welfare Department has approved a $39,570 grant toward construction of a $903,600 sewage treatment plant by the Berks-Montgomery Municipal Authority, Gilbertsville, Pa.

New Jersey fared worst on that basis, having to pay $2.10 for each $1 in aid. Delaware was second with $2.03. Most favored were Alaska and Mississippi, where the aid received was four times the expenditure.

The differences are due to the fact that some areas require more money for public works than others. There is no attempt, it is explained, to award grants on a dollar for dollar basis.

During fiscal year 1963 the money was distributed for a wide variety of purposes. It went for urban renewal, welfare, flood control, public health, agricultural price supports, recreation facilities, teacher training and many others.

A book issued by the Area Redevelopment Administration lists more than 50 such local programs. It is entitled "Federal Aids to Communities."

2nd Victim Of Crash Dies

CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—Anthony Monday in Chester Hospital. Manisc, 25, of nearby Folcroft, Price A. David, 21, also of Folcroft, became the second victim of a two-car collision when he died in an accident which occurred here.

"To solve my problem, the Bell service man did more than I had asked"

The elderly gentleman wanted us to "tone up" his telephone bell. He was having trouble hearing it even from the next room.

Realizing that the customer's hearing was slightly impaired, our installer felt "toning up" would not be enough. Instead, he installed a loud-ringing bell.

In the gentleman's words, the Bell man "left a very well satisfied customer, who felt better for his having called."

A small thing? No. Not to us or the customer. In giving you the service you need and want, nothing is small. Whenever you pick up your phone, the Spirit of Service is there.
